We Came

In Appreciation

Neither rain nor snow nor sleet nor West Texas dust storms have kept our principal from making his appointed rounds on the sprawling Central campus. His familiar, hurrying figure has been an inspiring sight to generations of Centralites. Hurrying, yes, but never in such a hurry that he lacked time for a friendly greeting, a word of encouragement, a pat on the back for teachers and students alike.

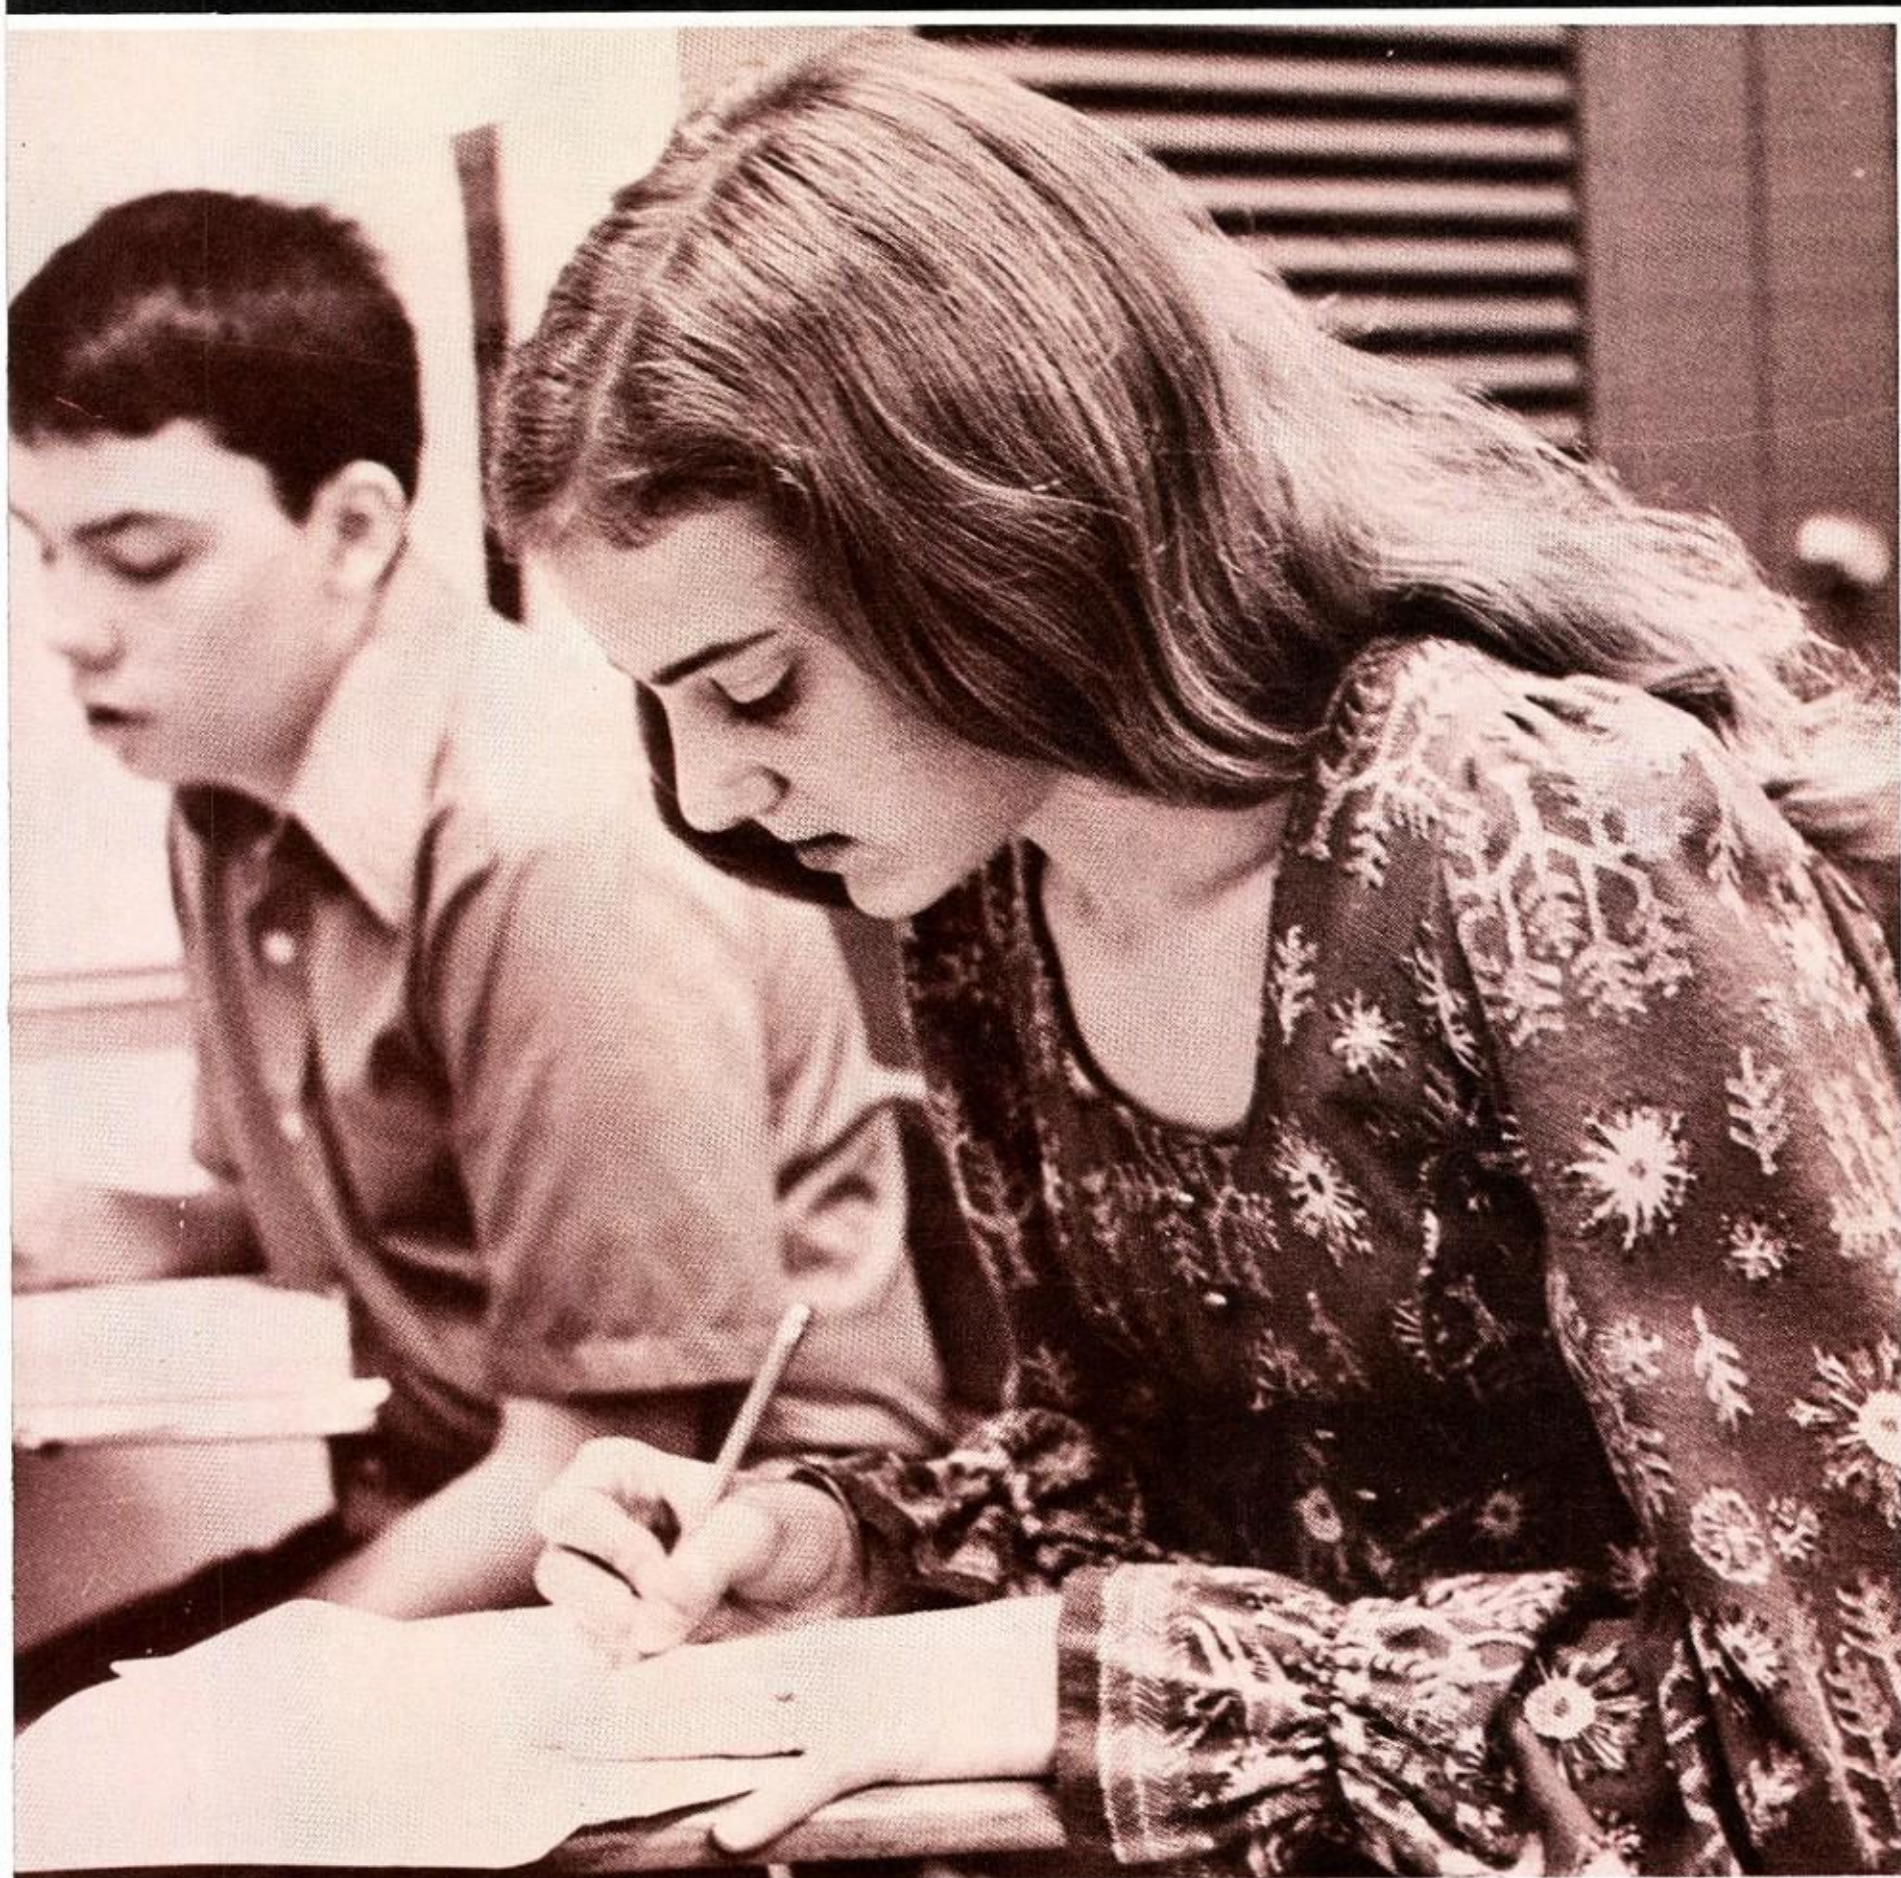

We're going to miss you, Mr. White. We're going to miss those words of encouragement, those unannounced classroom visits, that familiar striding figure.

It is impossible to list your professional achievements and affiliations here. Suffice to say that you have seen nearly 12,000 students walk across the graduation stage, and that more than $8 million in scholarships, grants, and fellowships has been awarded during your administration.

For these and many, many other reasons the 1973 Westerner staff takes great pleasure in dedicating this year's edition of the Westerner to our principal, Mr. Minton L. White.

Joe Graham, David Nelson Join Faculty As Assistant Principals

Changes occurred in several Central departments, and the administration was no exception. Joe Graham and David Nelson joined the faculty as assistant principals, their primary responsibility being attendance. The new, combined with Minton L. White, principal; George Faulkner, assistant principal and registrar; and Hans J. Hagelstein, director of student activities, all work to make Central run smoothly.

More changes are in prospect at the close of this school year. After 20 years here, Mr. White will retire.

Non-Certified Personnel Assist In Diversified Areas Of School

It takes a lot of people to keep a school such as Central functioning smoothly. And the women "behind the scenes" are the aides and secretaries. Their assignments range from answering telephones to contacting truants to filing records.

The aides and secretaries work closely with the principal, assistant principals, and department heads. They are found in such diversified areas as the library, special education, and the Area Vocational School.

Such positions as attendance clerks, printing assistant, and receptionist also are filled by aides.

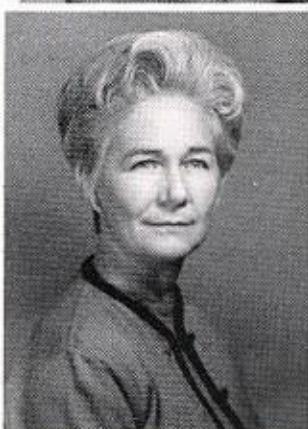

Aides, secretaries, and assistants are classified as non-certified personnel.

Central Has Something To Offer Every Student Interested In Art

Bangles, bobbles, bracelets, rings; woodcuts, monoprints, silk screens, and posters. These are a few of the things which the art and craft classes made this year.

The arts are divided into classes, including Art I, II, III, IV, and V and Craft Art I, II, and III.

Art I classes concentrate on drawing, design, and color.

Art II involves drawing in ink, lettering, layouts, silk screen printing, and illustration and poster making.

Art III is a course in print making. It involves design, woodcut prints, monoprints, linoleum prints, and stamp prints.

Art IV is divided into drawing and painting. Design in pen and ink, brush and ink, pastels, pencils, conte', and nylon pens is taught, as well as painting in water color and acrylic.

Art V is a course in three-dimensional design in wood, clay, stone, plaster, and metal.

Craft Art I is a full-year course aimed at introducing the student to several areas of techniques and media used by craftsmen. This course attempts to stimulate interest in the arts and crafts for students who will become producers or consumers of art.

Craft Art II is a continuation of Craft Art I, with continued emphasis on design and craftsmanship.

Craft Art III is offered to students interested in a career in the arts. This course involves advanced work with materials used in ceramics, sculpture, and jewelry.

Business Students Offered Math, Bookkeeping, Shorthand, Typing

"I am a thousand dollars short. What do I do?" Central business department gives the answers to such questions and attempts to avoid the problems.

With business arithmetic and bookkeeping for business math and shorthand, Typing I, and II for the secretarial skills, a student can prepare to face the business world.

Business arithmetic is designed to compute business problems. The problems, taken from business situations and transactions, provide a basis for analyzing business situations and exercising judgment of monetary values and relations.

Accounting background, both personal and business, is given in bookkeeping. Not only are the fundamental principles of double-entry bookkeeping taught but basics of financial statements, social security, income tax, and business forms also are covered.

Shorthand emphasis is on speed and accuracy in dictation and transcription of new material plus transcription of mailable business letters, and improvement of typewriting, spelling, punctuation, and sentence structure.

In Typing I, students learn the fundamentals of typing as well as the care and operation of the machine. With touch typing drills, reduction of errors, and acceptable grammatical form students develop personal and pre-vocational knowledge.

Typing II is taught primarily for vocational training. Emphasis is on the development of speed and accuracy.

Counselors 'Specialists' With One Goal—To Help Students

A most important role in Central's overall program is that of the counselors. Their duties are many and varied. They arrange schedules and schedule changes, plan and administer various tests, approve work permits, as well as help with students' personal problems. They also work closely with teachers and parents.

Those students whose future plans include a college education are wise to take the proffered help and advice of the counselors from the very beginning of their high school careers. Those who plan to enter a vocation after high school find that the counselors can save them much lost time, frustration, and possible failure.

Central's counselors specialize in specific areas, including Oscar Gomez, minority group problems; Ollie Kuykendall, office operations; J. T. Morrow, testing; and Fern Dell Smathers, varsity program.

A master's degree in counseling and at least three years teaching experience are required for becoming a counselor.

It is estimated that counselors reach about 70 per cent of the Central student body in a year, and that each talks with approximately 40 students daily.

STUDENT DRIVER

Reduction In Insurance Rates Is Driver Education Fringe Benefit

"Car No. 4, Car No. 4, stop! You're heading for the tower! Stop! Stop!"

These and similar remarks frequently are heard during Central driver education classes. Students in these classes learn to recognize various traffic regulatory signs by their color and shape as well as gain an understanding of the workings of the various components of an automobile.

To take driver education, a student must be 15 years of age and in grades 9, 10, 11, or 12. Older students are given first preference.

Present laws allow for a 10 per cent reduction in insurance rates for males under 25 who have successfully completed the entire driver education program.

Driver education is divided into four phases: Classroom, simulators, range, and street driving.

Completion of the classroom phase will qualify a student to apply for a license which requires that he may drive only while accompanied by a licensed driver age 21 or older.

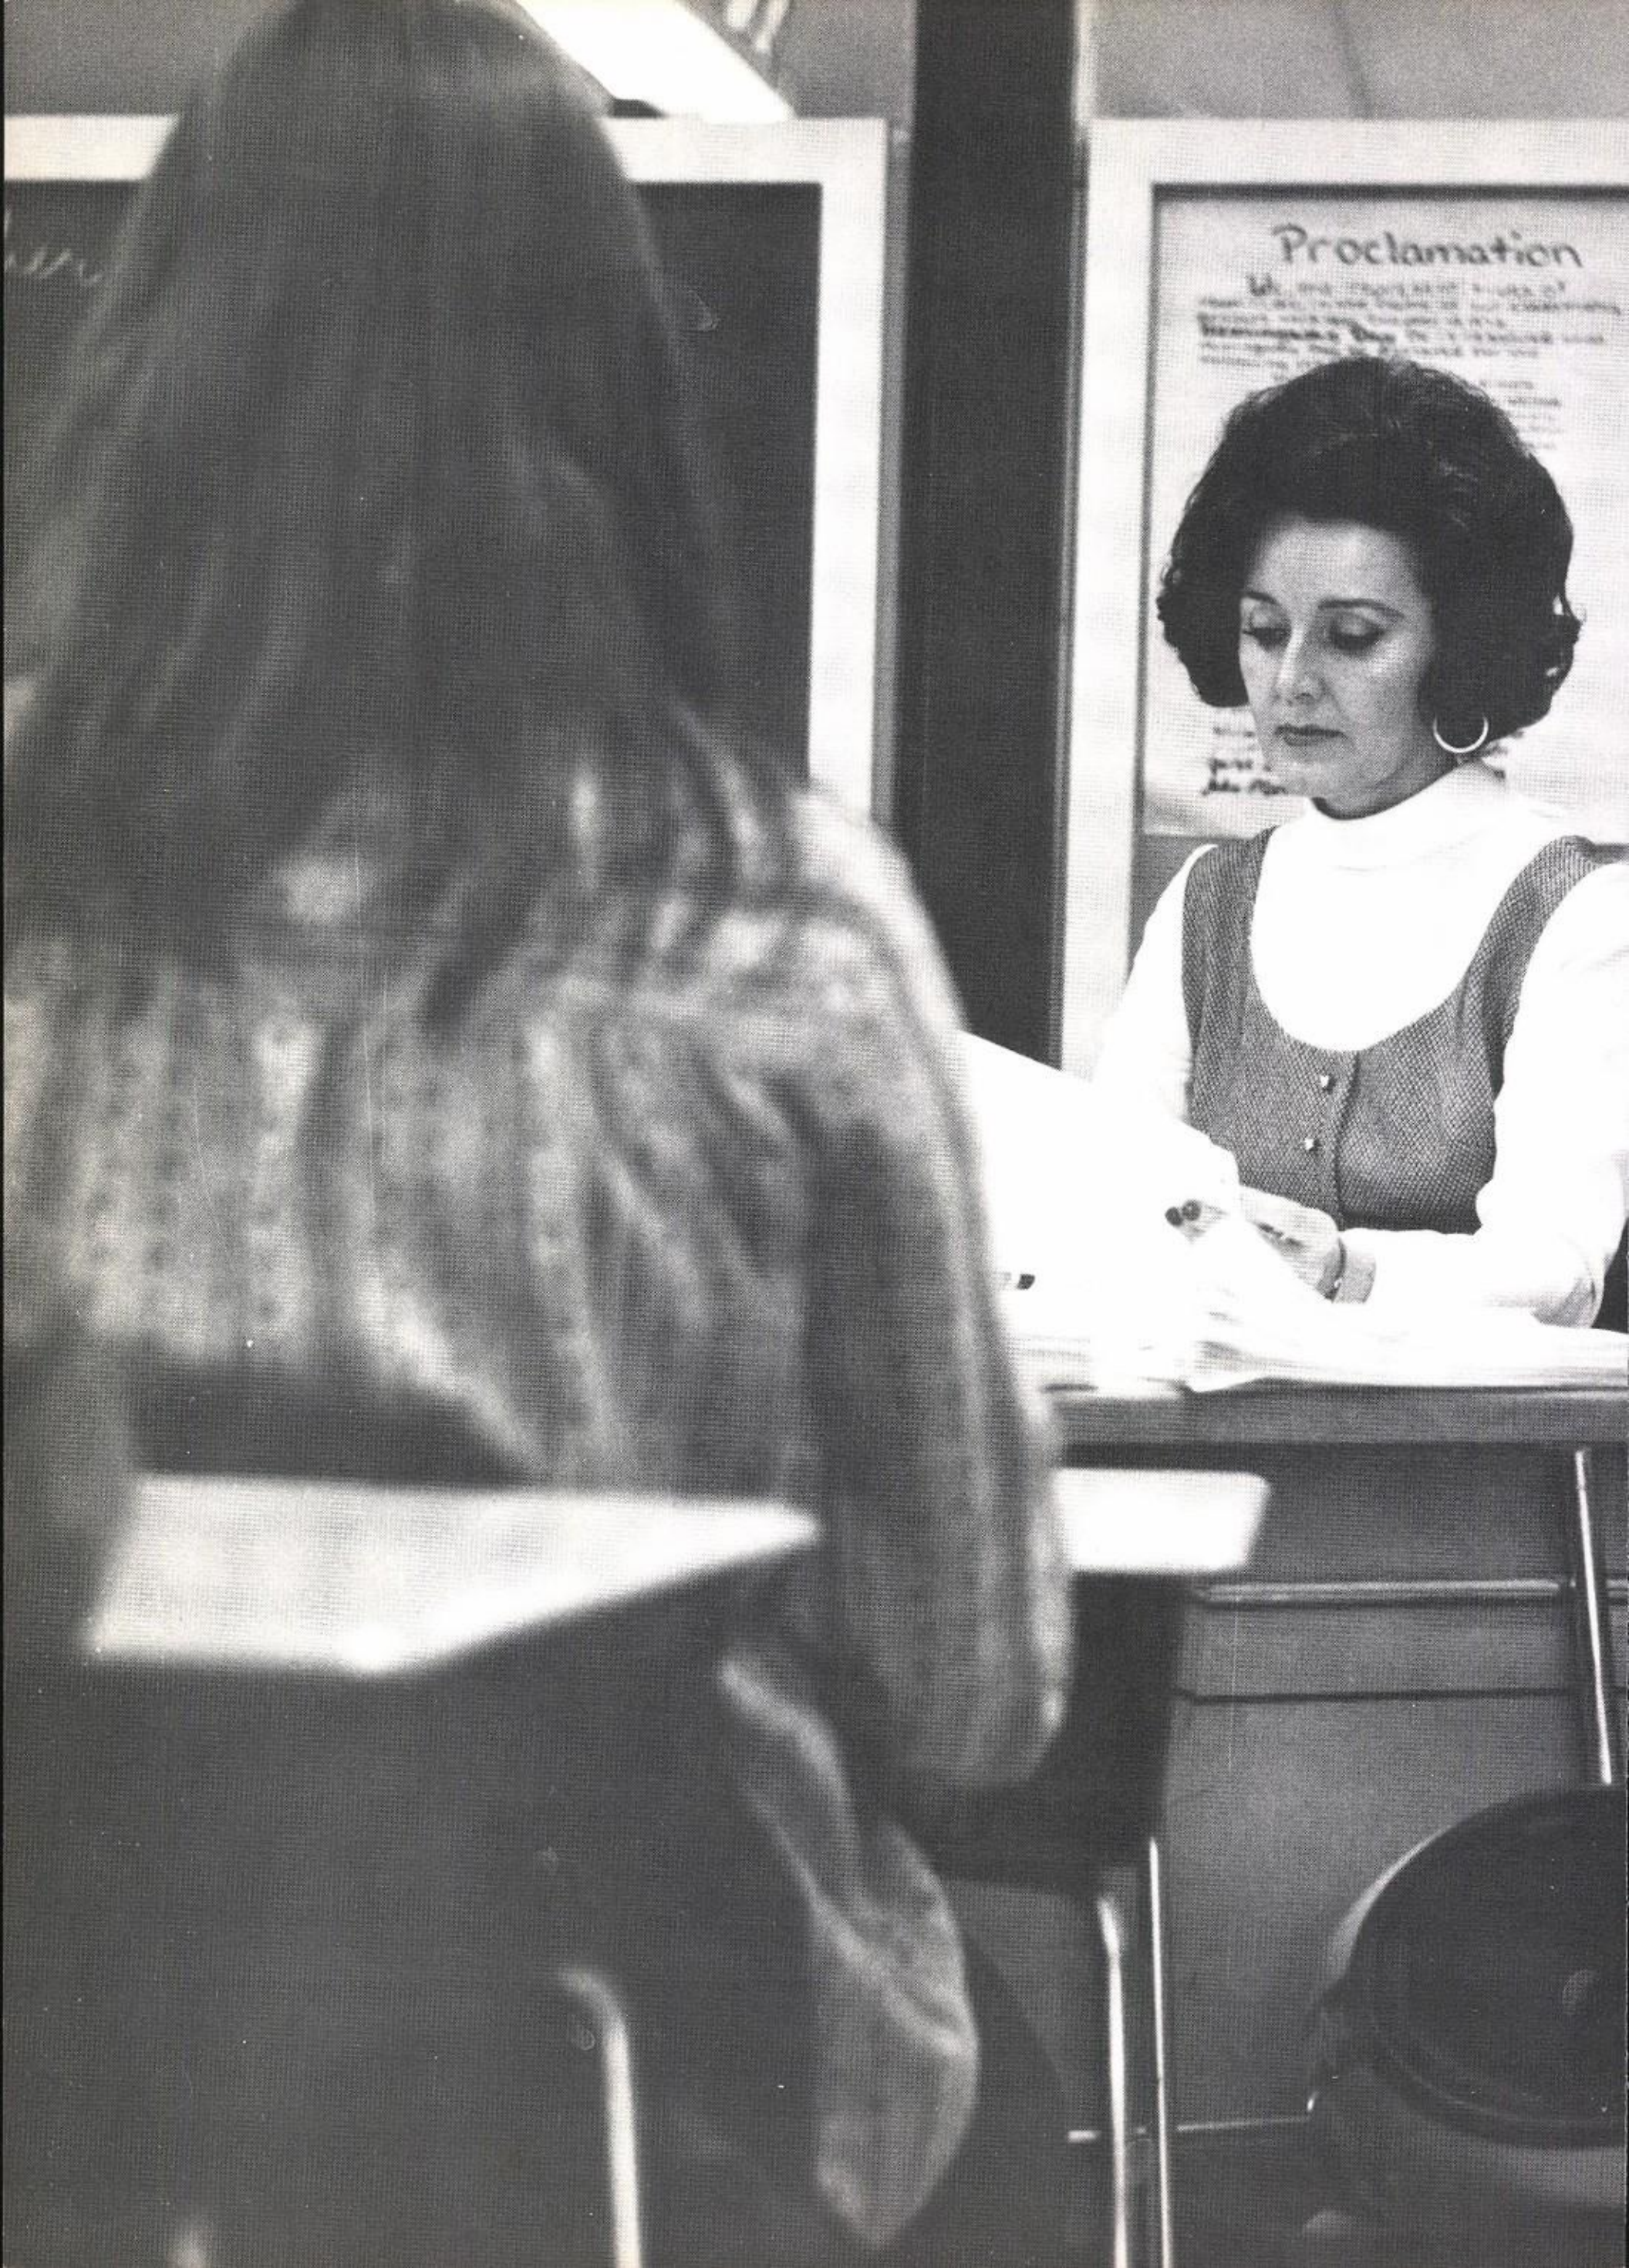

Successful completion of the driving and observation phase will allow the student to apply for the removal of the restriction at age 16.

Central Students Have Choice From Four Foreign Languages

Throughout Central's buildings, the murmurs of strange sounds may be heard. These "foreign" sounds could be any of the four languages offered here.

Students learn to be at home in France in French I, II and III. In French I, not only are grammar and simple conversation taught, but also the French geography and culture. French II is an extension of French I plus a study of the religious differences in France. French III is where the student of French exercises all his knowledge to read French literature, including current magazines.

German I students learn the sounds of the Germanic language. Once the students have mastered these fundamental sounds, they learn to read and write the language. German II is advanced sounds and more writing.

Latin I and II students comprised the last classes taught by Mrs. Dorothy Redfield, who retired this year after completing 36 years of teaching. Latin I is reading and basic grammar. Upon reaching Latin II, students read and translate from all forms of Greek and Roman literature.

Probably because of the proximity of Mexico, Spanish I, II, III, and IV are the largest foreign language classes. Placement in each level is determined by grades and teacher recommendation. Spanish I stresses the fundamentals of the language and gives a brief overview of the culture. Spanish II and III are continuations of Spanish I with increased emphasis on writing and speaking, respectively. Spanish IV emphasizes individual reading.

Journalism Affords Experience In Editing Newspaper, Yearbook

The task of compiling, editing, and financing Central's student newspaper and yearbook is the primary responsibility of the journalism department, which is housed in Emerson 4. Here students attend journalism classes, and here publications staffs meet, draw up layouts, write copy, develop and print pictures, and otherwise tackle the problems that daily confront publications workers.

Journalism classes are taught by Ed Cole, who also is adviser of both publications staffs. The journalism program is organized basically into Journalism I, Journalism II, and Westerner staff.

Journalism I is an introductory course in the basic techniques of journalism. Students are given instruction in such areas as news stories, feature stories, editorials, headline writing, copyreading, and makeup. Although emphasis is placed on classroom activities, students are given assignments for the school paper, the Campus Corral, as soon as they are capable of handling them.

Frequent use of daily newspapers is aimed at teaching Journalism I students to appraise critically and evaluate more accurately what they read.

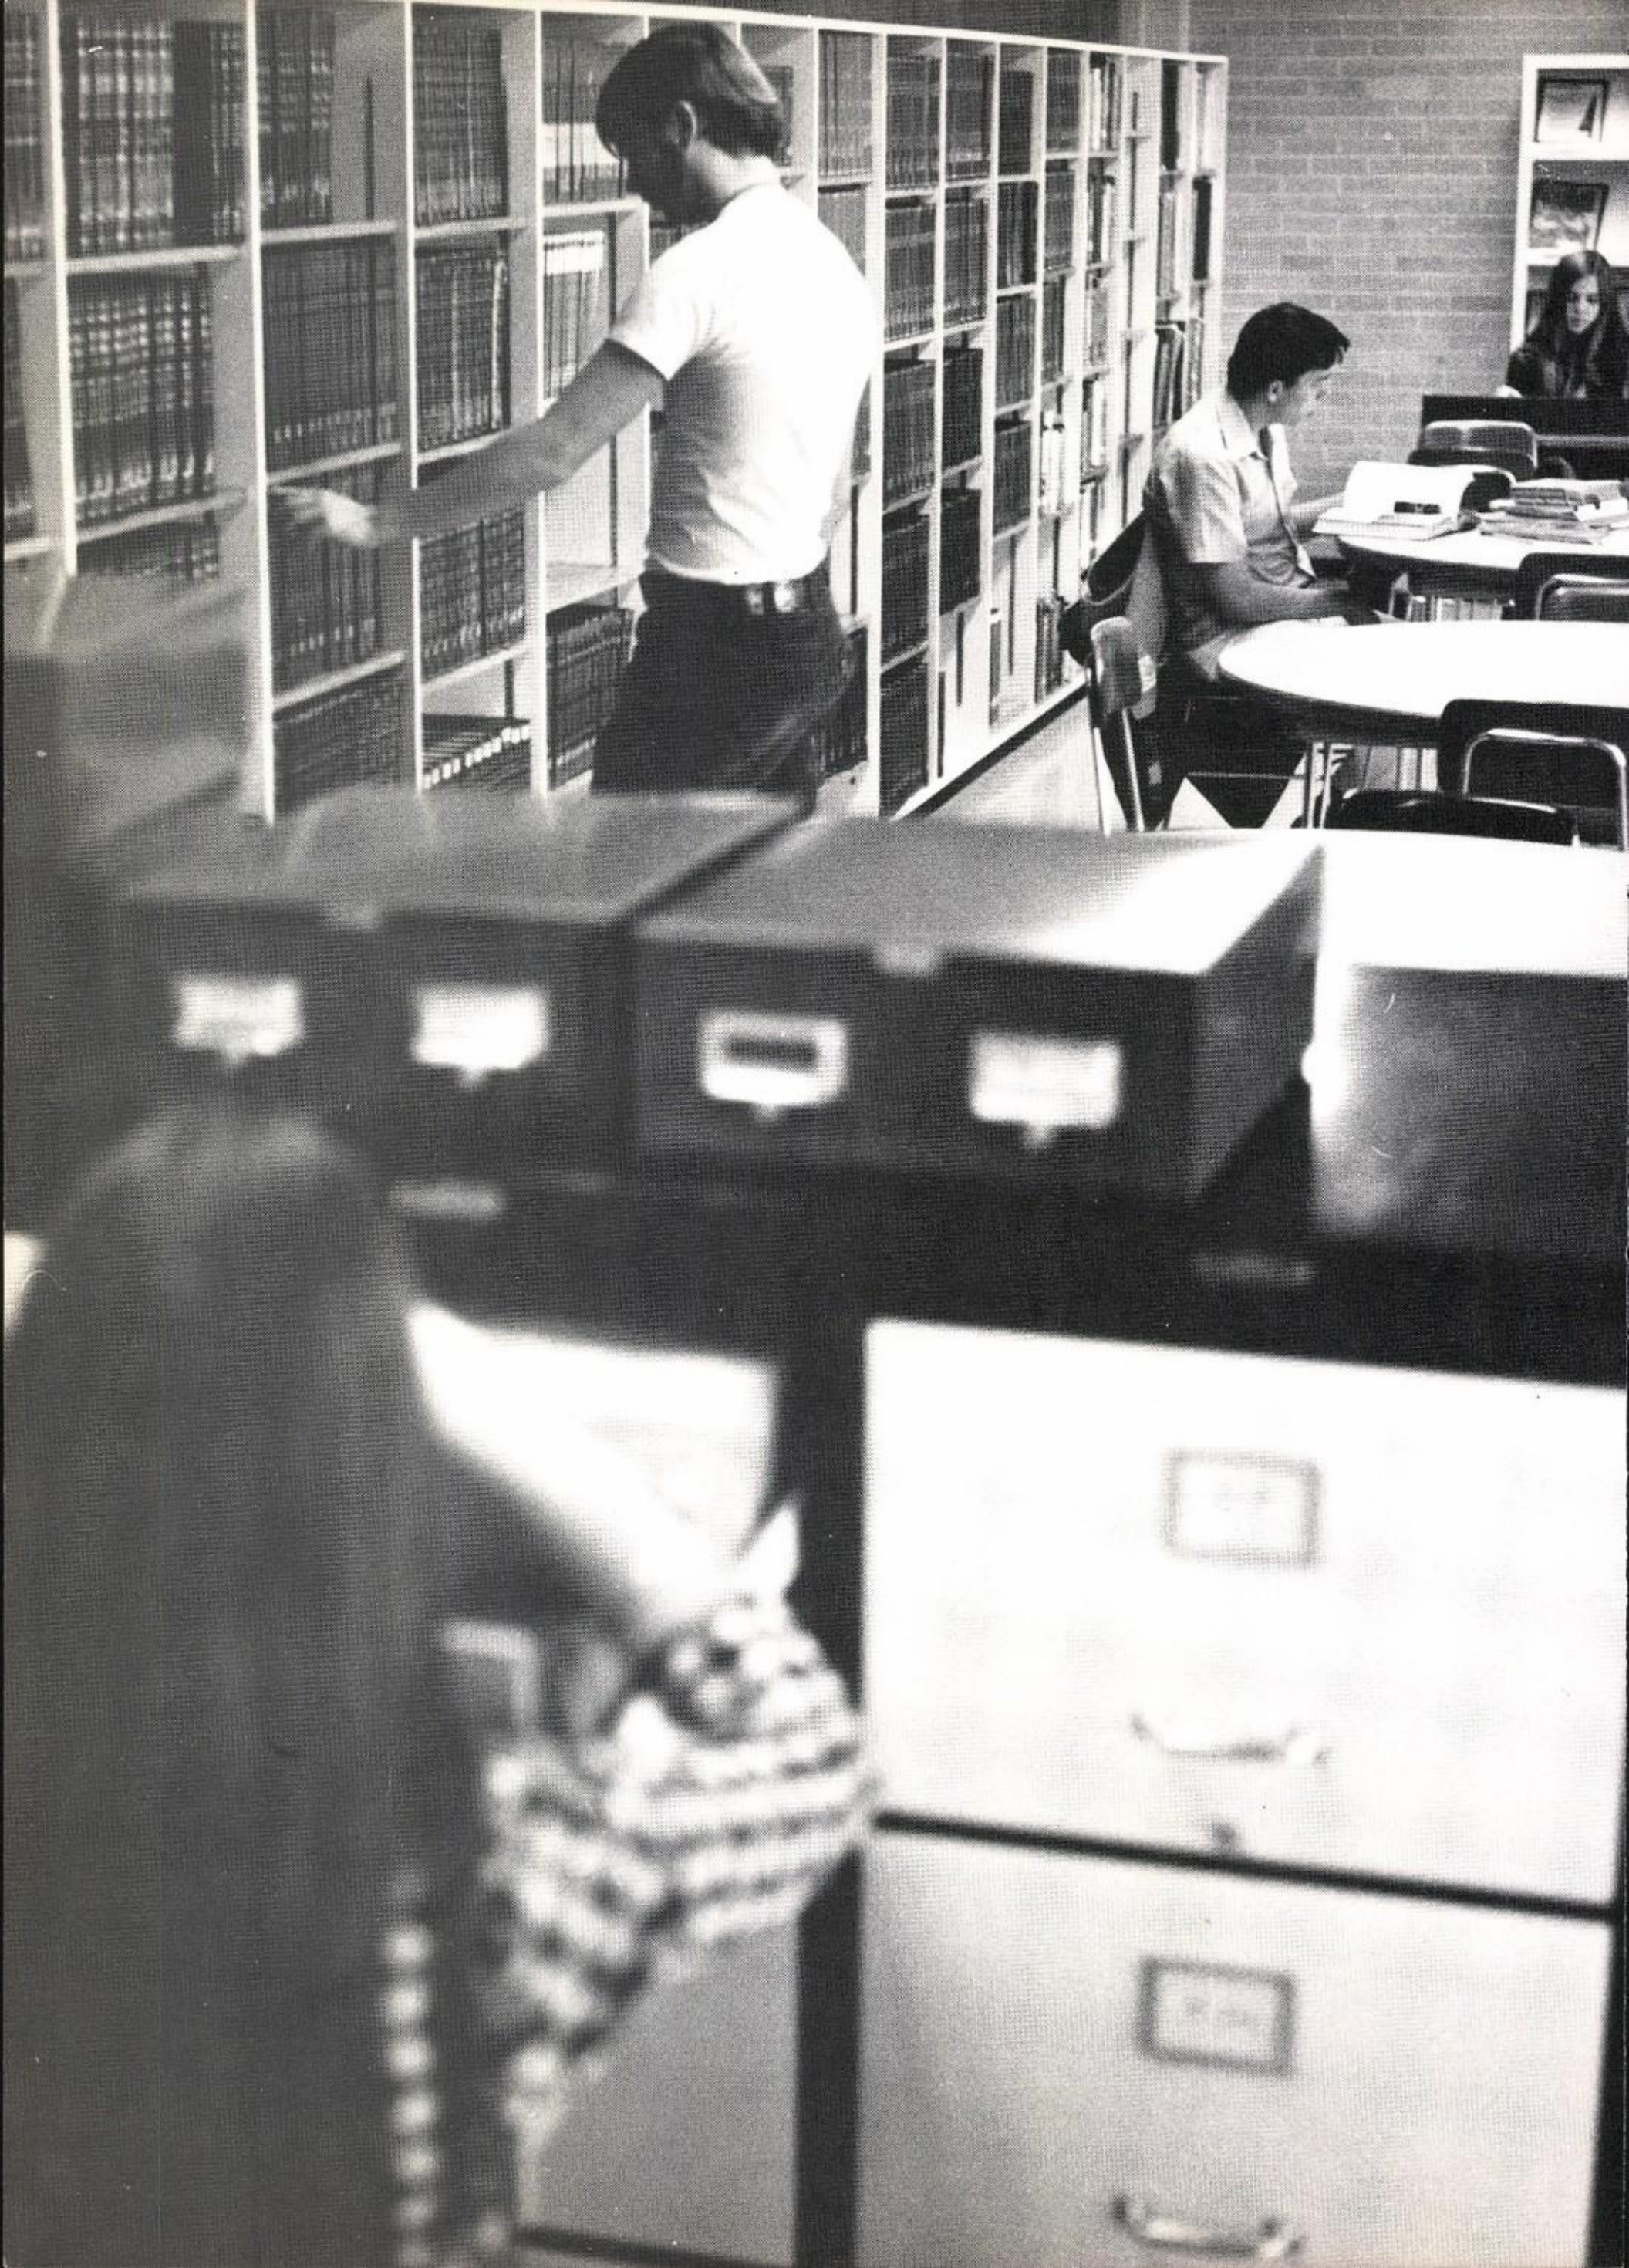

A continuation of Journalism I, Journalism II emphasizes mastery of the skills to which the student already has been introduced. Journalism II students are primarily responsible for writing and editing each edition of the Campus Corral.

The Westerner staff, which meets 6th and 7th periods, is responsible for compiling and editing Central's yearbook. Staff members are assigned in three primary areas—design and layout, soliciting of advertising and keeping of business records, and the taking, developing, and printing of pictures.

20,823 Volumes Offer Centralites Wide Choice Of Reading Matter

"No, we don't have the latest issue of Playboy. Sorry, but someone cut out the centerfold of this month's Cosmopolitan. Would 'Little Women' do?"

Regardless of Playboy and Cosmopolitan, Central students still may choose from among 20,823 volumes on the library shelves, of which 875 are new.

Heading the library staff are Mrs. Clara Poteet and Miss Billie Usher, librarians. They are assisted by a secretary, a VOE student who works a half day, and 28 student aides.

"The library is not a study hall, but is for reading, reference work, and for checking out books and periodicals," Mrs. Poteet emphasized.

A book may be checked out for two weeks, then may be renewed for an indeterminate length of time.

An average of 375 Centralites used library facilities each day, and the average daily circulation of books and periodicals was 320, Mrs. Poteet said.

Central Mathematics Department Offers Choice Of Nine Courses

Central's mathematics department has taken on the task of clarifying such errors as $2 + 2 = 5$. These errors are cleared up by student participation in the nine math courses offered.

Related Mathematics I increases the student's knowledge of applying the elementary arithmetic skills to comparatively simple, practical problems.

Related Mathematics II is a continuation of Related Math I, using it with simple trigonometry, geometry, and statistics.

Algebra I deals with simple linear equations in one or two unknowns, whereas Algebra II follows an in-depth study of algebraic principles.

Geometry consists of the study of relationships between points, angles, circles, spheres, and figures.

Trigonometry is an advanced course designed for those students who expect to go into engineering, science, or higher mathematics.

Elementary Analysis I studies Algebra I and II in more depth. Elementary Analysis II is a continuation of this program.

Analytic Geometry is designed for those students who possess an unusual understanding of and background in mathematics.

Instrumental, Choral Training Offered To Musically Inclined

Walking down the sidewalks of Central, one might hear the combined sounds of a tuba and sopranos. Although housed in different buildings, students in both instrumental and choral classes can be heard simultaneously going through their daily practice sessions.

The band and orchestra, directed by Homer A. Anderson, meet in Michelangelo Hall and offer three courses: "A" band, "A" orchestra, and instrumental music. "'A' band and orchestra are the performing organizations," Anderson said. "They play at concerts, pep rallies, and parades. Solos and ensembles are encouraged."

Instrumental music is offered to those students who have not had enough experience in junior high school to play in the "A" band or orchestra.

Choral music, directed by Ron Bates, is offered to any student by audition. There are seven choirs; Chorale, Male Chorus, Girls A Cappella Choir, Mixed Choir, Sophomore Mixed Choir, and Bel Canto Choir. The Choral Music department gives 30 to 40 concerts yearly, and participates in contests, tours, and assemblies.

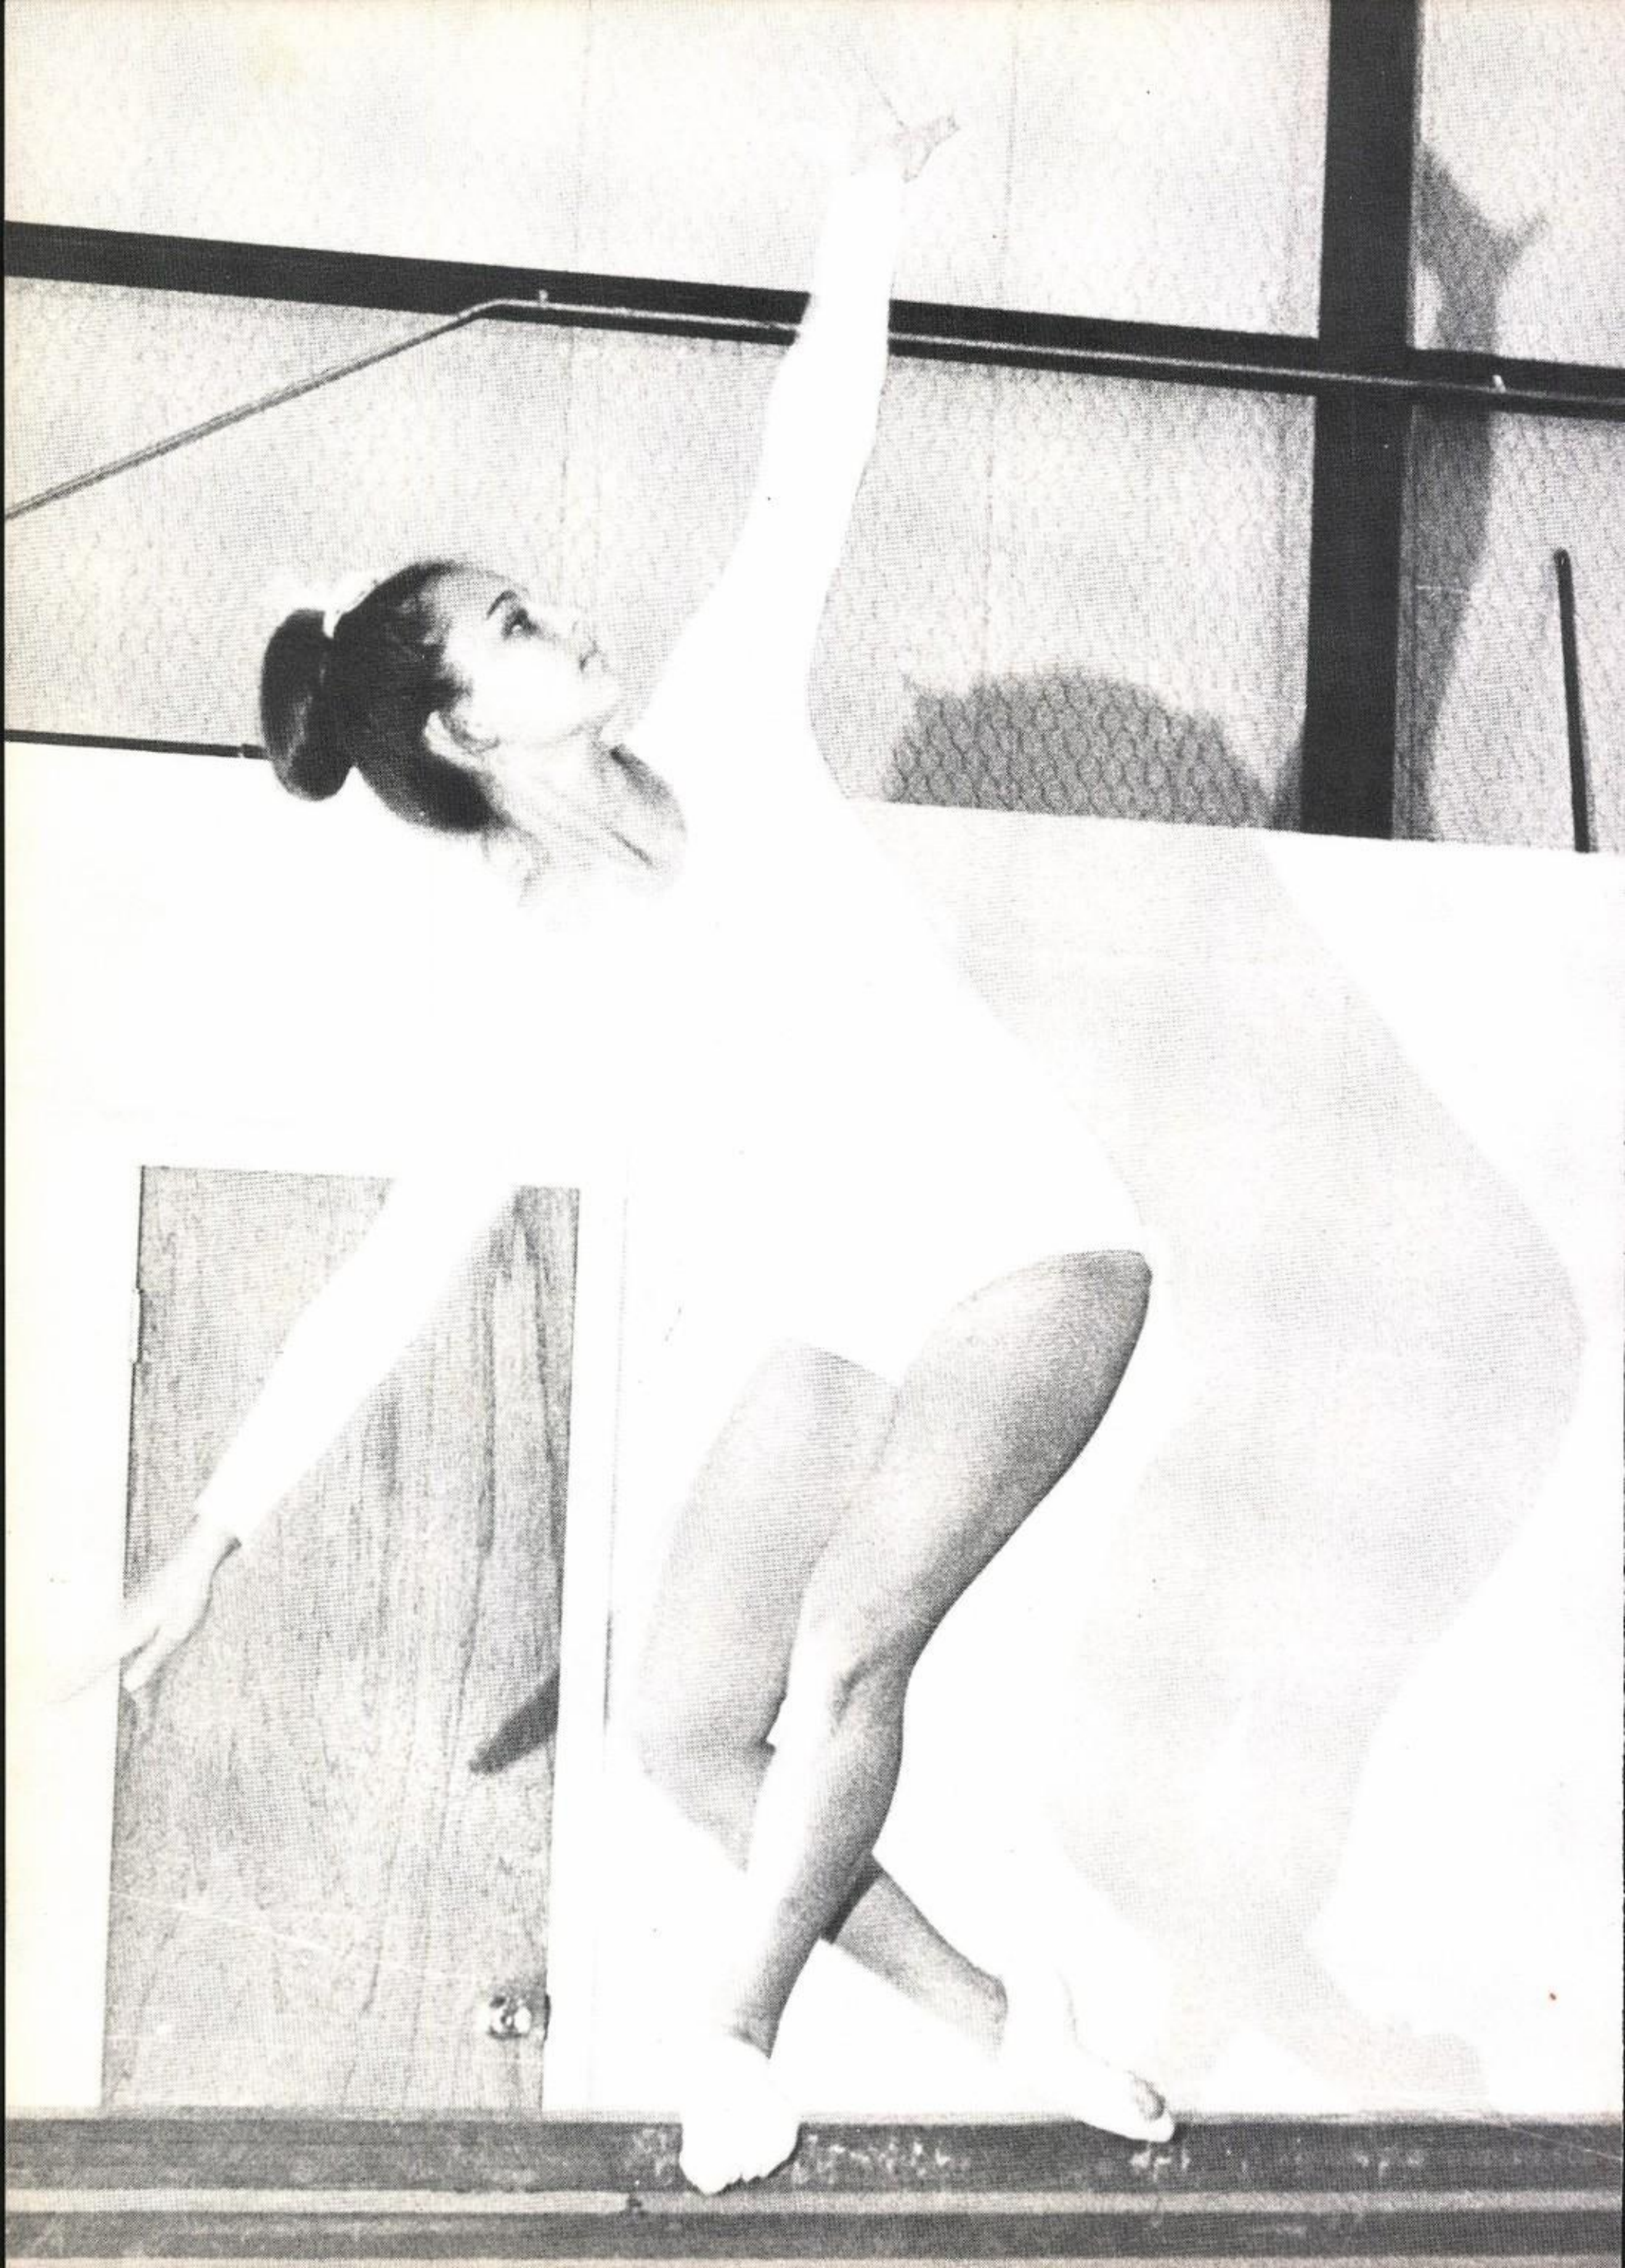

Music Theory I and II, taught by Eddie Lou Neel, begins with the study of all forms of scale construction, interval and triad formations, and provides background necessary for composition or for harmonizing simple melodic lines.

8 New Teachers Join PE Staff As Gymnasts Get Own Building

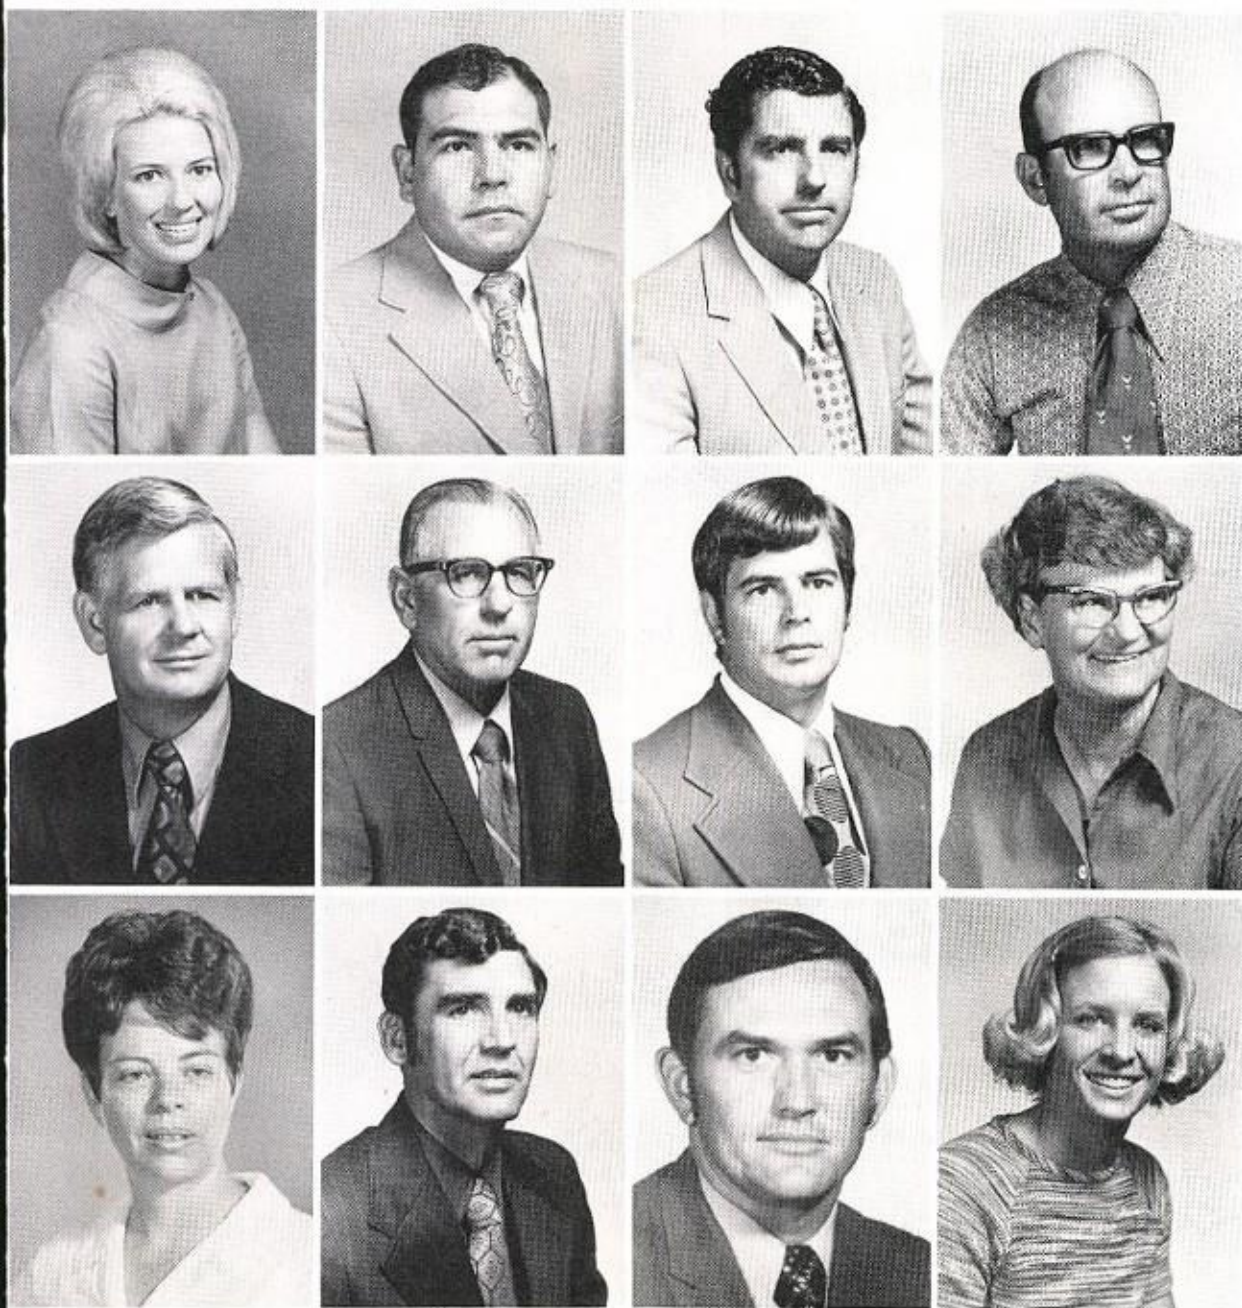

With the new gymnastics building, gymnasts have a home of their own without competing with the many other physical education activities for Babe Didrikson Gym.

Besides gymnastics, Central offers swimming, archery, badminton, volleyball, softball, basketball, bowling, golf, and tennis.

Each student is required to take a semester of instruction in health. In this sophomore class, students learn good health practices and basic first aid.

Eight new physical education teachers and coaches joined the PE staff this year, and they joined returning instructors in emphasizing good health rules and sportsmanship. With this challenge, plus the new and old facilities, the Central student cannot help but be a good citizen.

Diversity Of Courses Comprise Central's Science Curriculum

As he walks through Schweitzer Hall, the visitor's senses are assaulted by strange sounds and even stranger smells. Don't be alarmed; it is only the science classes preparing hydrogen or sulfur dioxide or other such concoctions.

Chemistry teaches the study of matter; certain laws and theories; metals, non-metals, and their compounds.

Biology deals with the study of living things and how they are related to each other.

Physics and Non-Technical

Physics encompass all physical laws and principles. The difference is that Non-Technical Physics places less emphasis on mathematics.

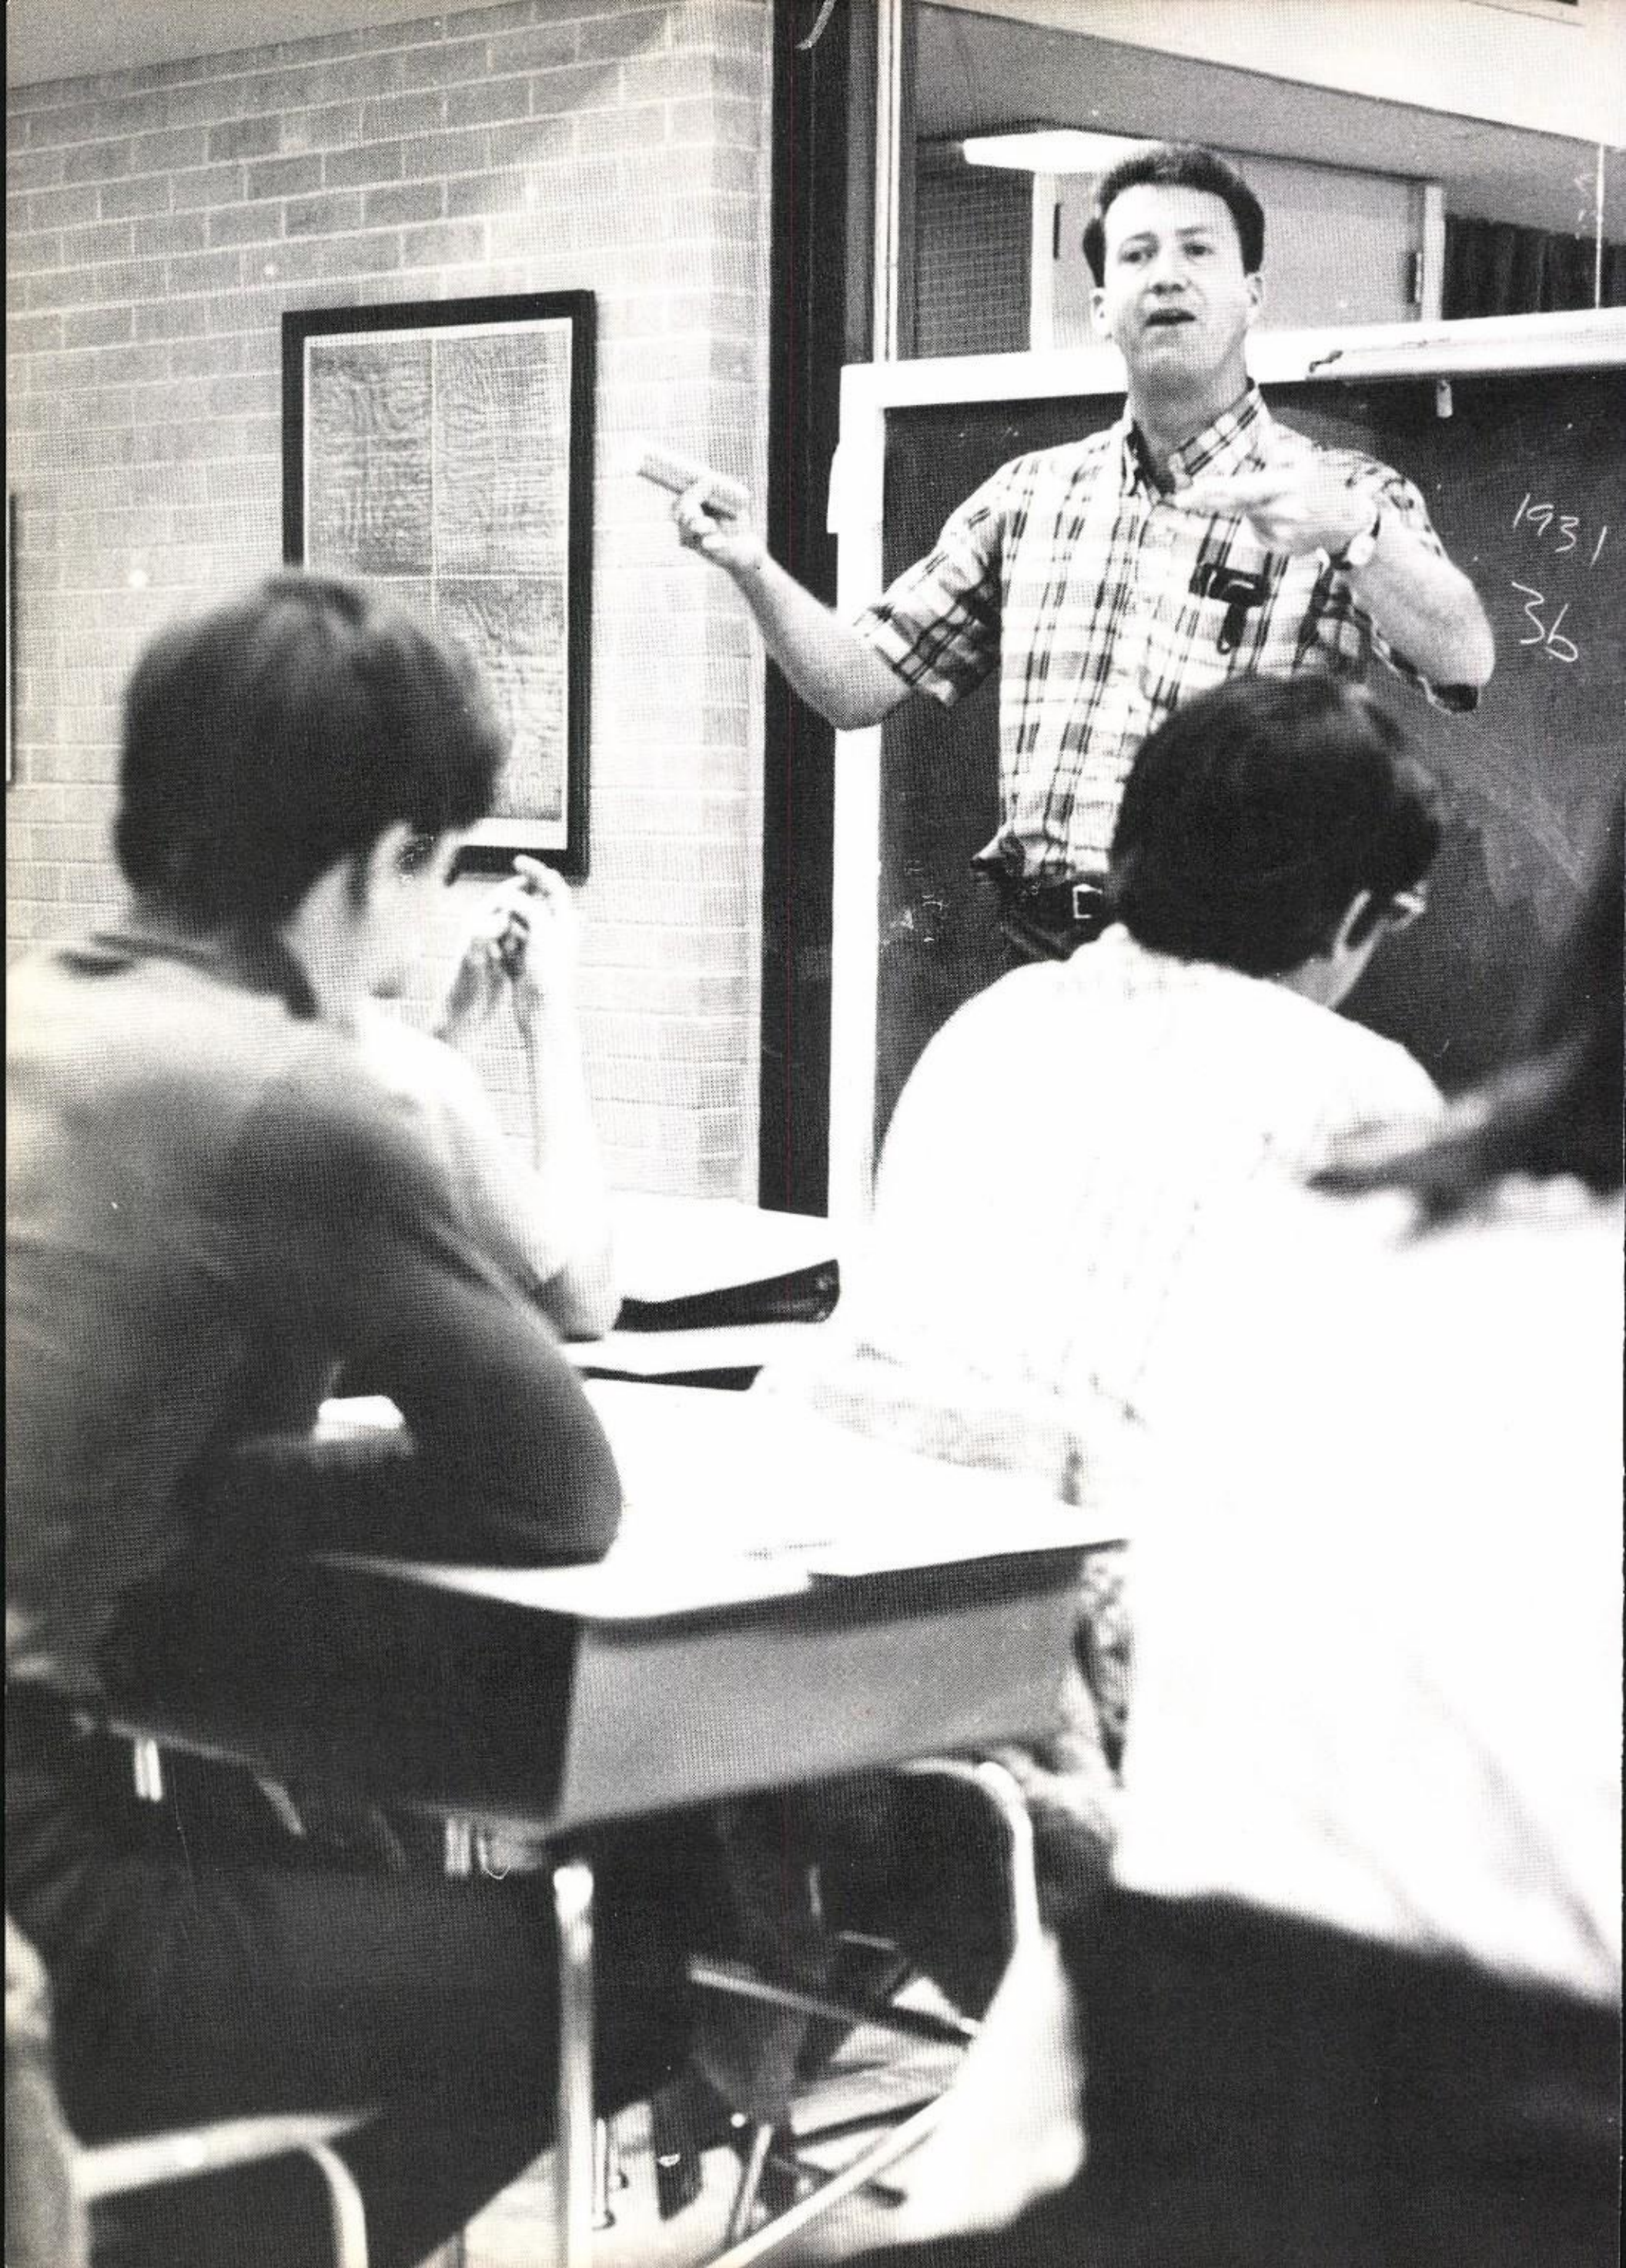

Advanced Science consists of the elements of chemistry, physics, and biology. These students are required to do more laboratory work than is possible during the scheduled class period. In this course, selected topics are investigated in depth rather than exploring a comparatively large number of topics extensively.

Special Education Helps To Meet Problems Of Individual Students

Central students who need extra help due to a physical handicap or learning disability are getting that help through the school's Special Education Department.

As part of the overall school program, Central is participating for the second year in the Texas Education Agency's Plan A, a cooperative project between Special Education teachers and teachers in other subject areas. Its purpose generally is to put students having handicaps and disabilities back into the mainstream of public school education. This is being accomplished by enrolling these students in regular classes, where at all possible, rather than keeping them segregated.

There are many other phases of the Special Education program, all aimed at giving each student a maximum of training and experience. For example, nine youths under supervision of Boyd Smith work three hours per day at the North Concho Lake in a cooperative project with the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Then there is the Vocational Adjustment Coordination program under which about 20 students receive school credit for working at various jobs, some part time, some full time. This program is directed by Mrs. Belle Feist.

The Vocational Building Maintenance program, directed by W. W. Worley, and the Home and Family Living program for girls, supervised by Mrs. Joyce Bark, offer valuable experience and training in specialized fields.

Other teachers in the Special Education program, which is directed by Dr. Carroll Click, are Mrs. Alice Cox, resource teacher; Mrs. Carolyn Minton, and Mrs. Janice Henry.

Speech, Drama, Debate Students Participate In Many Tournaments

Behind the glass windows of Emerson 1, one may see Tevya from the 19th century, a debater discussing education, or a student pantomiming the art of making a sandwich. All are activities of the speech and drama department.

Bill Bowen, coordinator of the course, works mainly with debate and drama, while Jim Glossbrenner teaches fundamentals.

Chosen as the 1972-73 play was "Tevya and His Daughters." The cast of 12 presented the poignant tale of a Jewish family in Russia.

Drama students participated in four West Texas tournaments. Entering a number of oral interpretation contests, individuals and groups brought home many awards.

Debaters had as a topic improvement of the U. S. educational system, and spent the year arguing the best ways to achieve this goal. Not only in inter-classroom debates, but in eight tournaments all over Texas, the education topic was discussed pro and con. Speech I develops the poise of a speaker, works on organization and structure of a speech, teaches the mechanics of speech, and gives special individual attention to the analysis and improvement of a speaker.

Having acquired the necessary skills of Speech I, Speech II students work on developing an understanding and appreciation of various kinds of speaking.

Debaters and drama students work in their specialized areas.

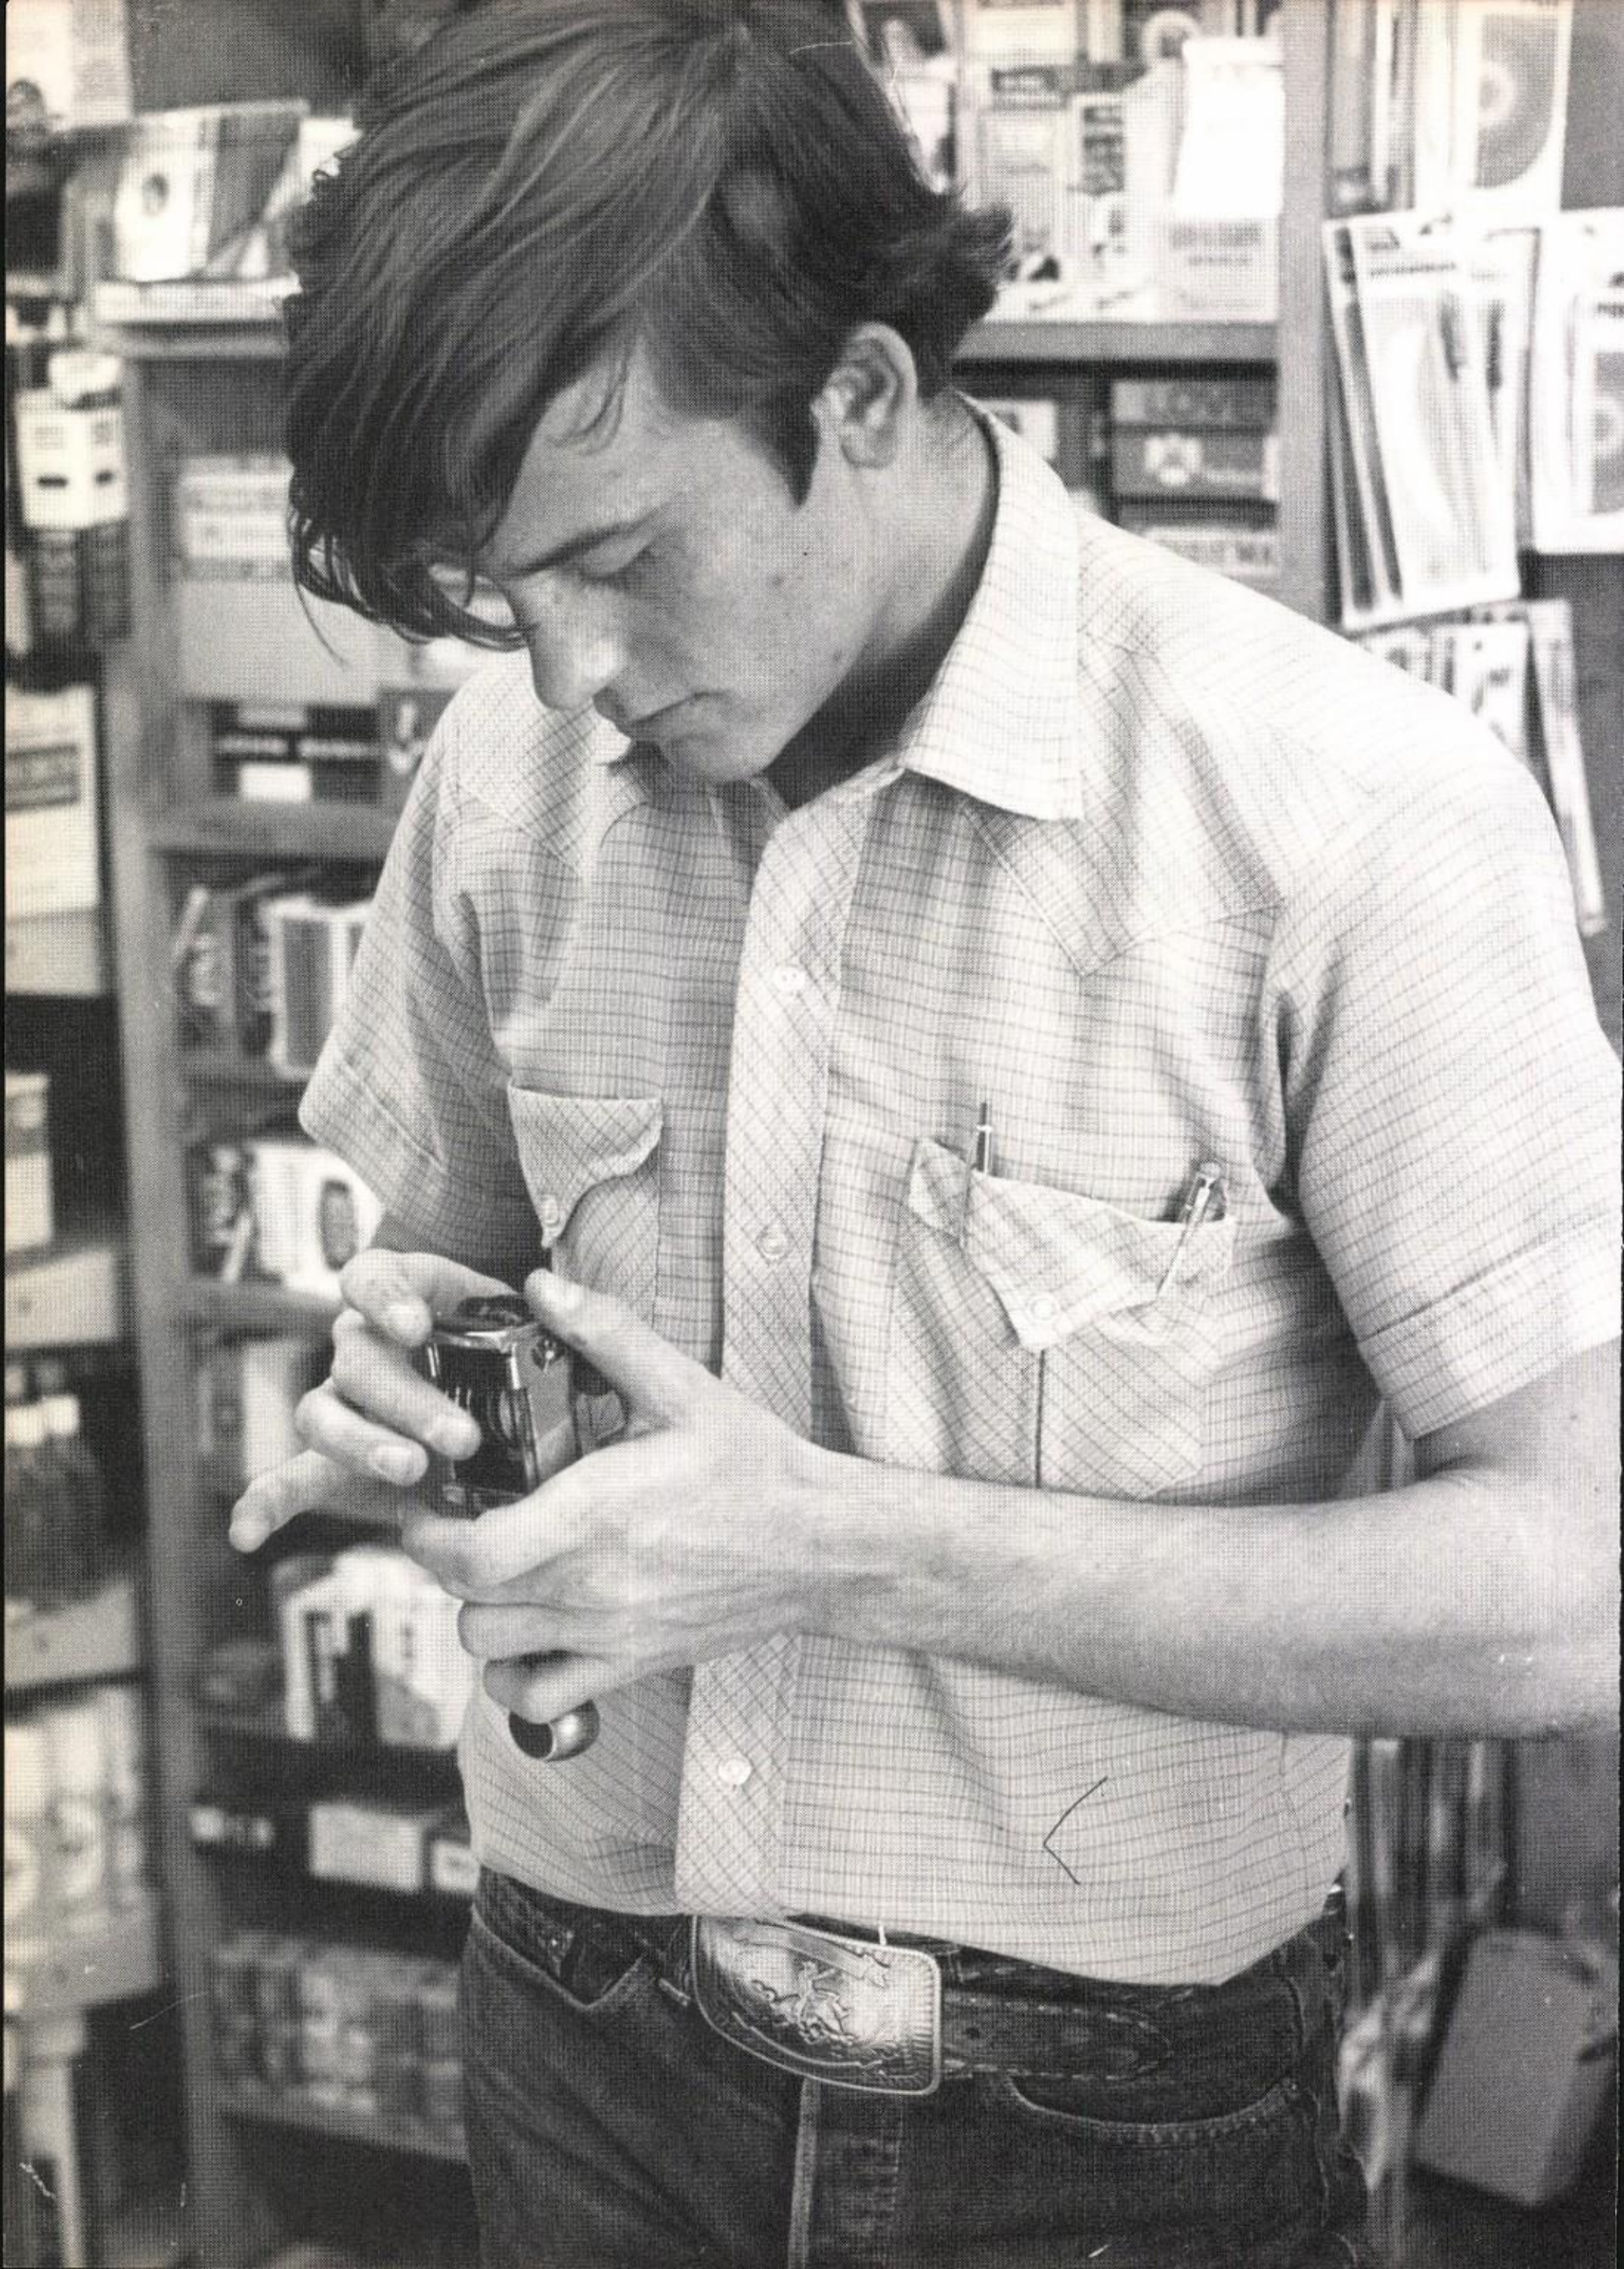

So that explains the activities behind the glass windows.

Vocational Cooperative Training Courses Offer Work Experience

Work, work, work is not an over-exaggeration when coming from a vocational cooperative training student. This program is a combination of classroom instruction, on-the-job training, and work experience. Students have a choice of five areas of study.

Agriculture cooperative training is designed to provide training for students interested in agriculture-related occupations.

For a student interested in occupations in retail and wholesale marketing and selling services, distributive education cooperative training is offered. Classroom work supplements the job experience.

Health occupations cooperative training is designed for employment in jobs related to health and patient care in hospitals, clinics, laboratories, doctor and dental offices, and nursing homes. This course offers opportunity for training for an occupation in health fields or further education.

Senior students are offered office education cooperative training. Combining on-the-job training with occupationally-related classroom instruction, students learn in a simulated business office laboratory.

Industrial cooperative training is designed to teach skills in semi-professional or commercial enterprise.

Area Vocational School Offers Training For Future Employment

Central's campus is site of the Area Vocational School, which offers students training in a diversity of fields. The Vocational School, directed by David Enderby, also offers training in selected skills to adults through night classes.

Most vocational courses are taught in Morse and Fulton Halls, with drafting and home-making classes meeting in Schweitzer Hall.

Vocational courses offered this year included Appliance Repair I and II, Agriculture I and II, Coordinated Vocational Academic Education, Office Duplication, Business Data Processing I and II, Homemaking I, II, and III, Home and Family Living, Auto Body Repair I and II, Auto Mechanics I and II, Building Trades I and II, Construction Trades I and II, Electrical Trades I and II, Metal Trades I and II, Radio and TV Repair I and II, General Drafting, Pre-Engineering Drafting, Technical Drafting, and Pre-Health Training.

Everything has to begin somewhere, and for Central students it is the cafeteria in late August. Registration is the process in which every student ends with writer's cramp. There are many tired hands after filling out the numerous forms involved. Beginning is only half over after registration. We must chose the officers to lead us. We also discover new teachers and friends, and even a new building. Finally, of course, there is the beginning of learning by work.

RAIN FAILED TO dampen the Homecoming enthusiasm of the Tex-Anns. Here some members of the drill team, bedecked in Homecoming corsages, find shelter under umbrellas of various sizes and shapes.

October 20 brought a flash of color and excitement. A few weeks before the big day the seven duchesses, Scarlett Goss, Debbie Kleypas, Beverly McKinney, Mary McKinney, Vonda Nichols, Suzie Sparks, and Tudi Roach were chosen. Homecoming involved the building of floats with fury, rain to dampen seats but not spirits, working for victory, and crowning of the queen, Tudi Roach. And finally a dance to complete the evening.

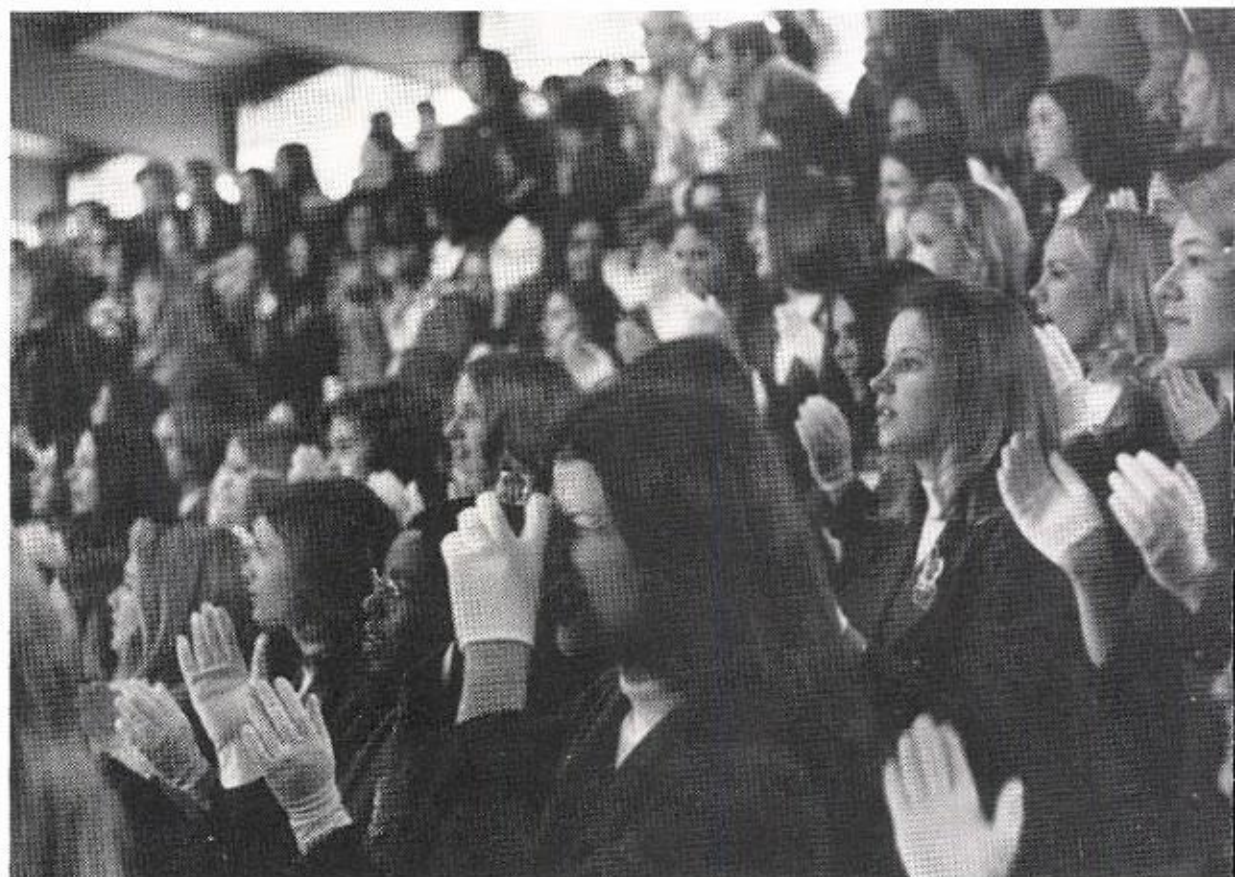

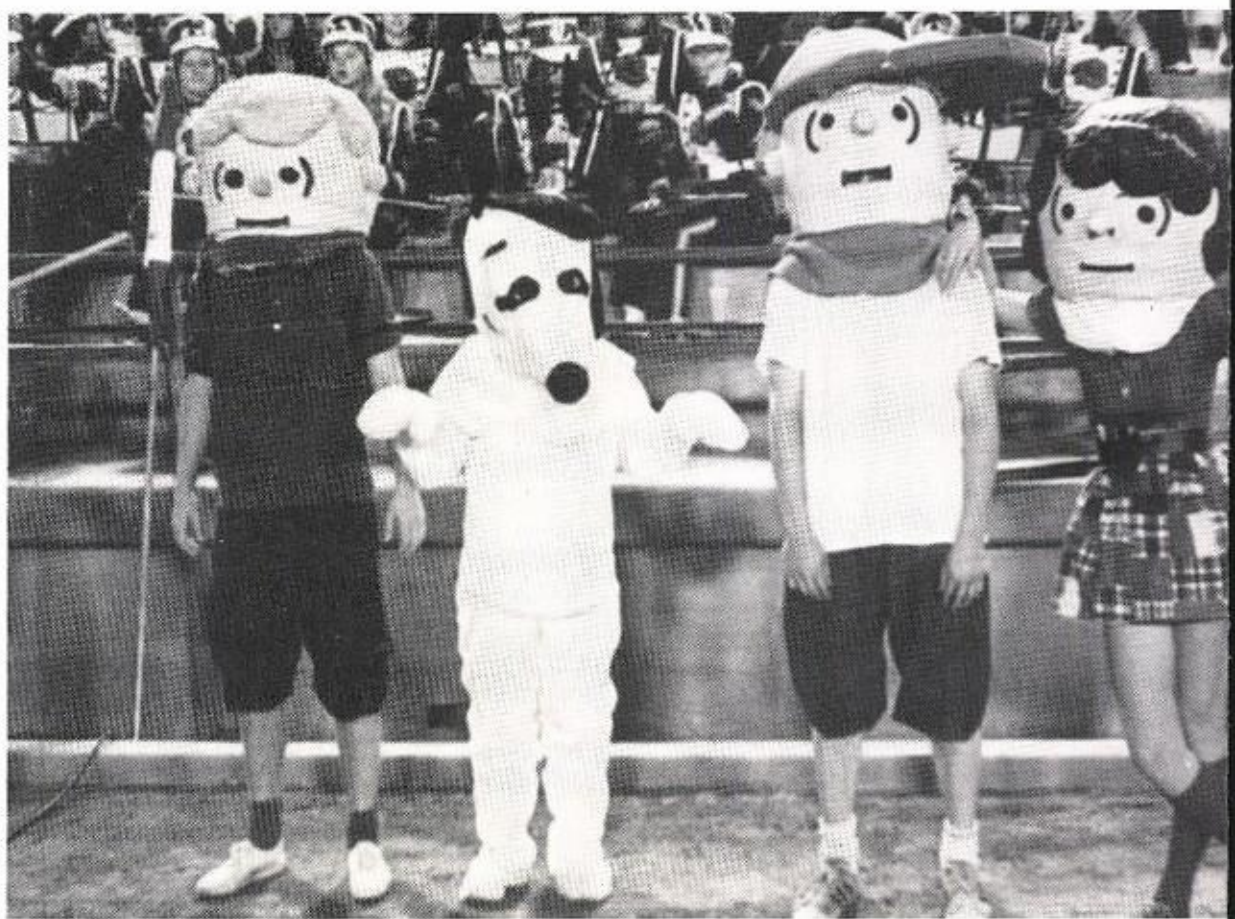

CREPE PAPER, CHEERS, AND CROWDS were as much a part of pep rallies as pep rallies were of Fridays.

CHEERLEADERS like Kelli were essential.

TEX-ANNS CONTRIBUTED to the rallies in voice and participation.

SPECIAL SKITS were a part of all halftimes.

After it all began, classes settled down to the usual routine. The sophomore excuse of not being able to find classes was no longer accepted. But all was not quiet on Central's campus. Friday mornings the gym was filled with screaming students showing their team that they 'loved them' during the pep rallies.

'BEAT PERMIAN WEEK' was a big part of November for all the students. Homerooms competed for the best spirit decorations and Key Club moved the bonfire in hopes of breaking the jinx of Permian. Friday, November 10 came with spirit high, the Band performed a special halftime, and the crowds cheered the Bobcats onto the field only to lose by a 27-14 score. However, all is not lost—the cry is already out to 'Beat Permian' next year.

Christmas Joy Felt On Campus

For Central High students, December was a month filled with the joys of giving, receiving, and fun! Many rooms shimmered with tinsel and laughter, and with the real spirit in helping others. Tricycles, dolls, and skate boards appeared on campus even before the holidays. A gift bound to bring happiness to many a tearful eye was the Student Council's collecting and repairing of toys to be given to needy children. A Christmas isn't Christmas without dear old SANTA!

Nickels, dimes, and quarters; cokes, cookies, and cakes, were part of Central preparing for the holidays. The students gave gifts to teachers and celebrated with parties. The principal, Mr. Minton White, and his wife received a gay surprise in an unannounced faculty meeting showing Central's appreciation for his twenty years faithful service.

Senior Rings Finally Arrive

December ended with a new and exciting event for the juniors. Senior rings ordered in October were delivered. The ring wearers were easily identified for they were seen with arm extended all over campus.

Holidays came and were gone all too quickly. Students returned to the reviews and, of course, semester exams.

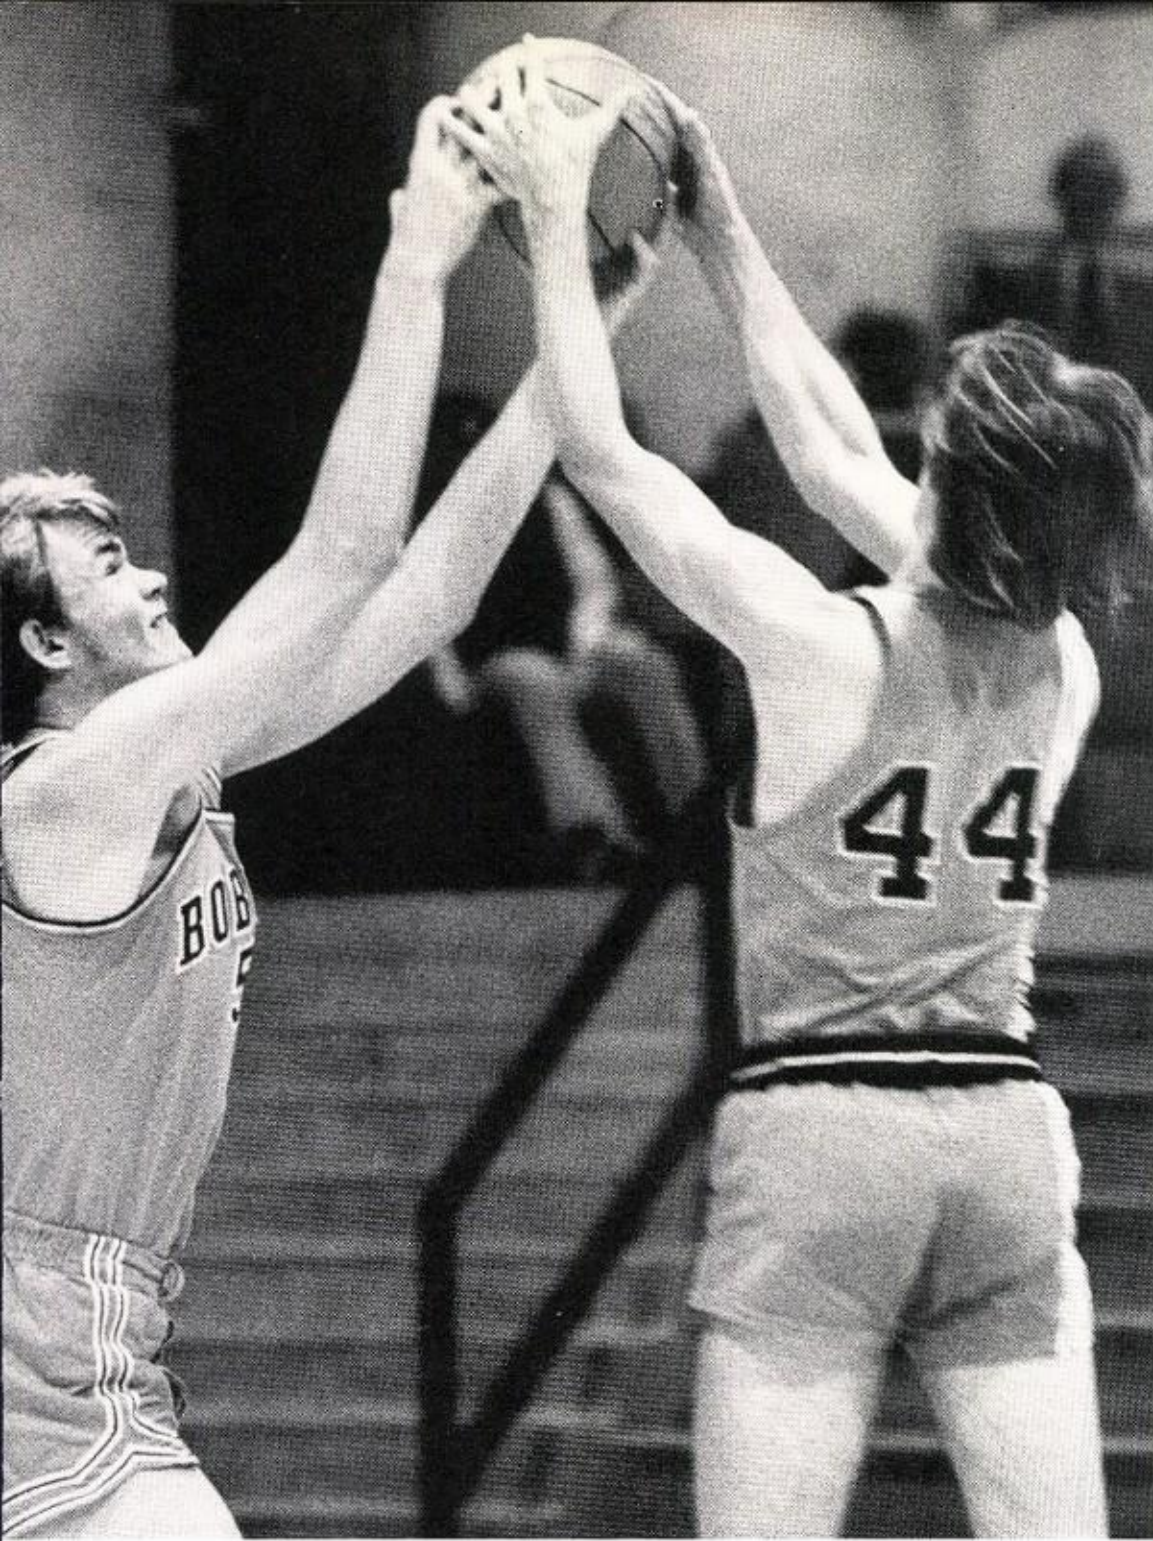

All of January was not work. Sports of all kinds were going on. Basketball on every Tuesday and Friday night helped to carry the fall spirit into winter. Golf, swimming, and gymnastics tournaments went on almost every weekend. For Central students January was a new beginning in studies and a thrilling month for sports.

Centralites Enjoy Snow

January brought the most unusual weather West Texas has had in years. Central students got to enjoy the substance called snow. With several unplanned holidays, the students spent hours decorating lawns and having snowball fights that occurred not only at home but on campus.

Senior Dreams Become Reality

February marks the beginning of the end. The annual Bobcat Football banquet is held to wind up and sum up the past season. The banquet was filled with laughs about what had happened during workouts and games. Below is a picture of one of the humorous awards being presented.

Also during February, the doubtful senior list was posted and seniors were measured for cap and gown.

Sports continued to change. By March, track and baseball were in full swing. Even girls got into the sport of track when the track queen and court were selected.

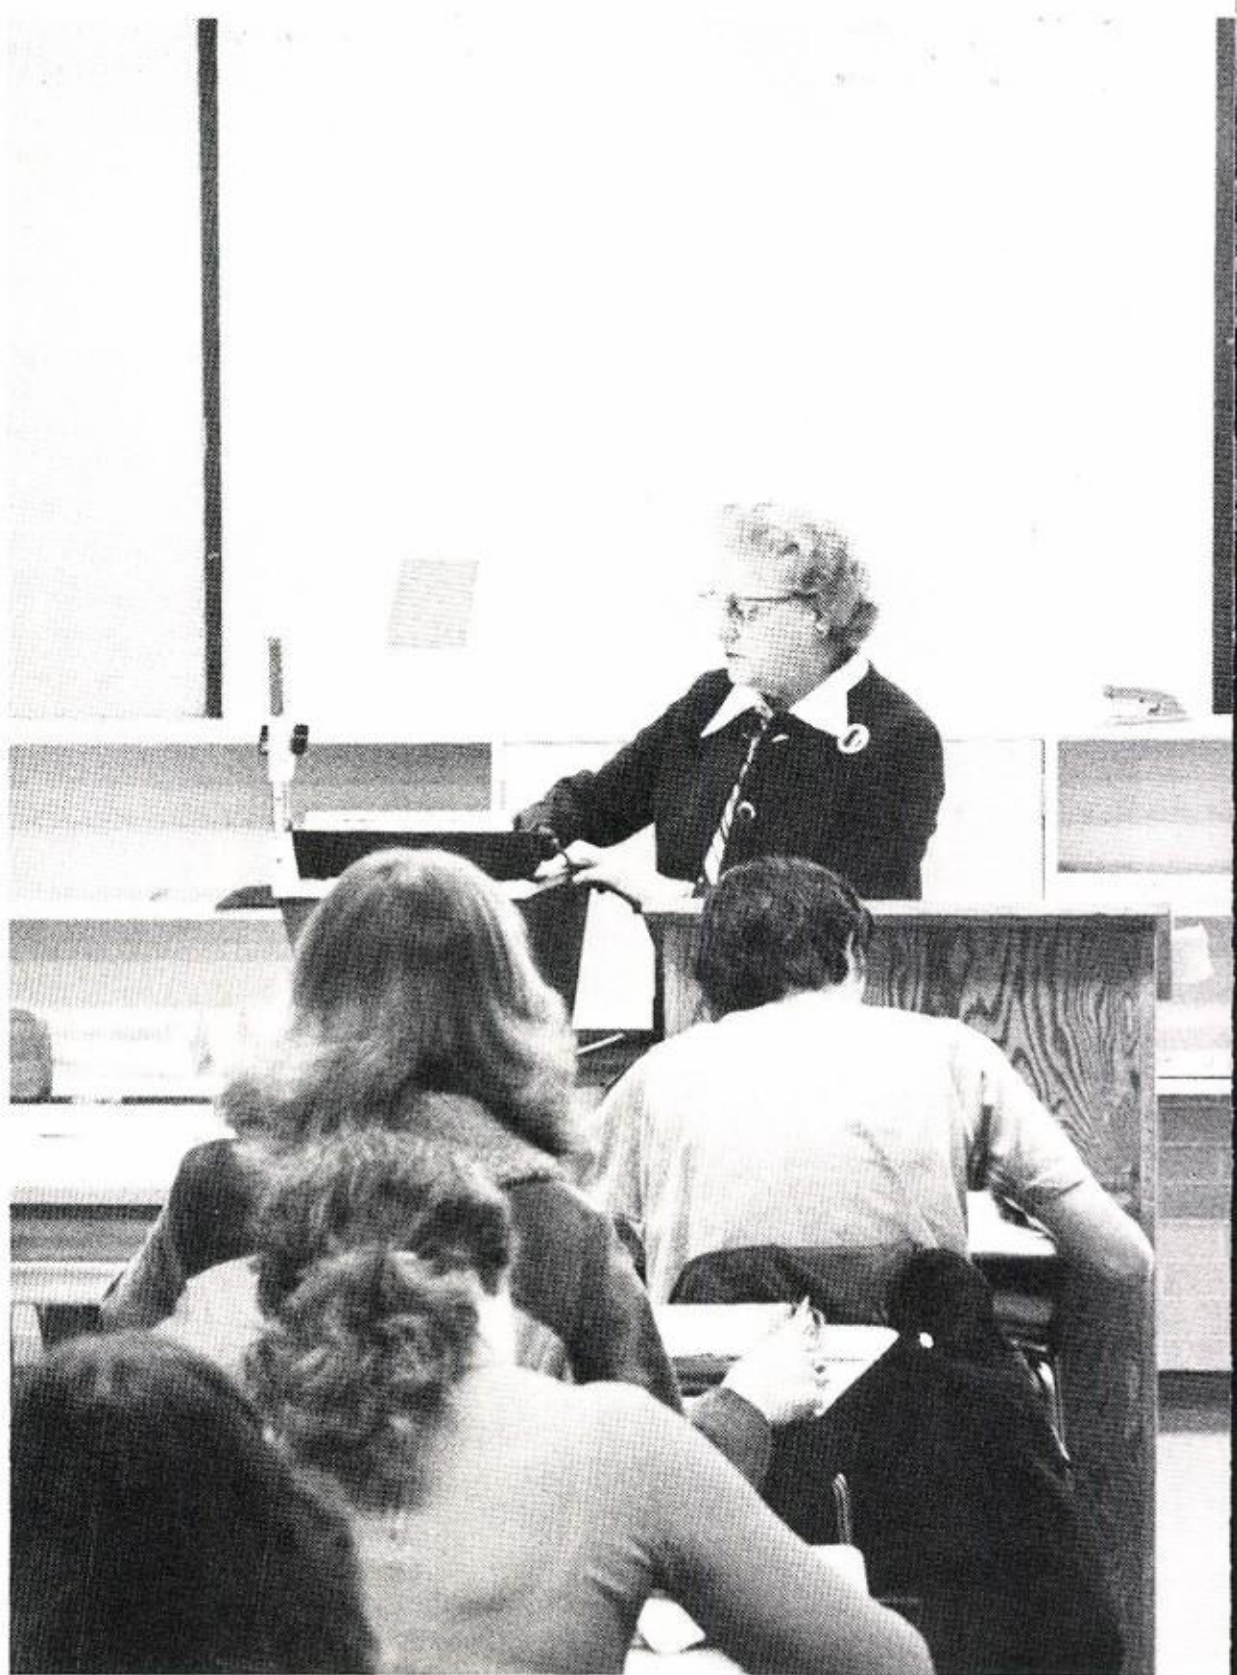

The desire to finish carried over to studies. Central students worked hard to get it all done. Monotony did not set in. The schedule was broken with assemblies such as the above "Up With People" group. In May the last final rush was made to get everything done. Dreams become reality for seniors and all made plans for the summer. Because it was the end.

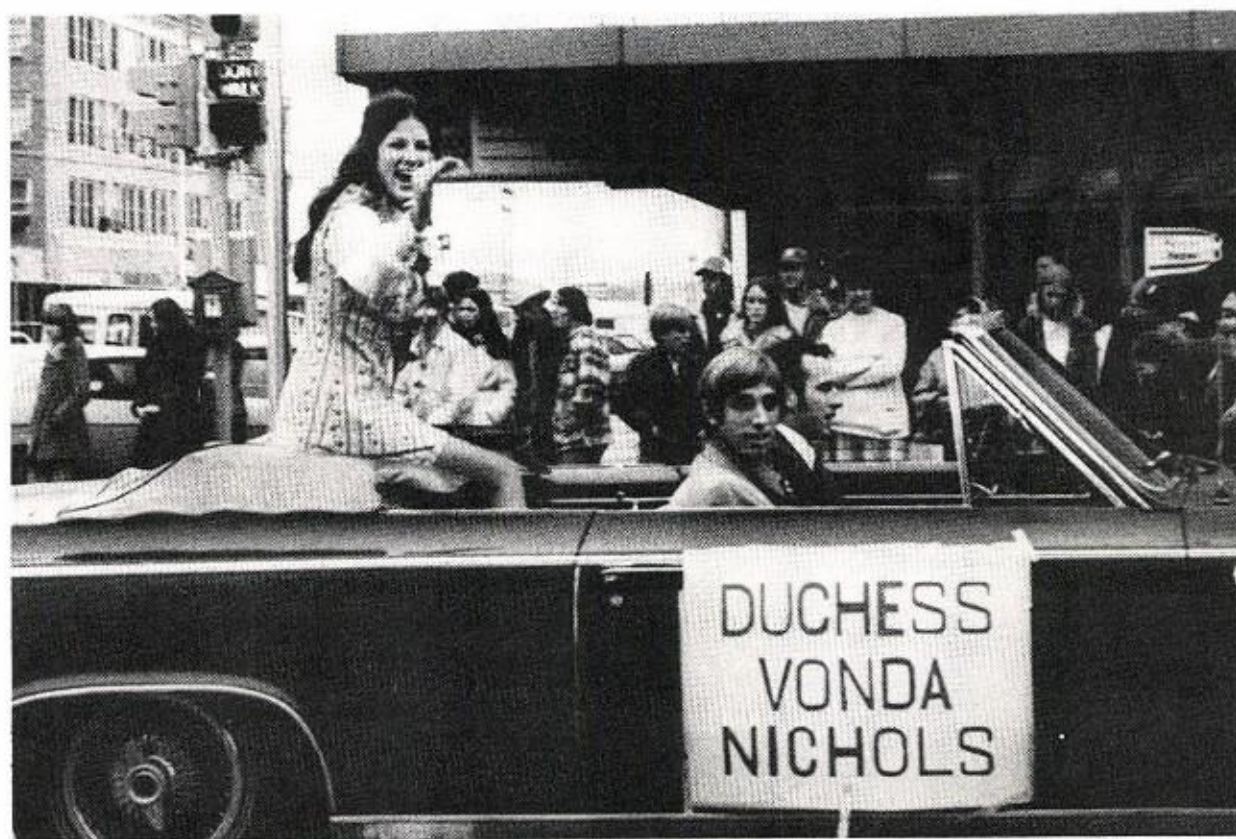

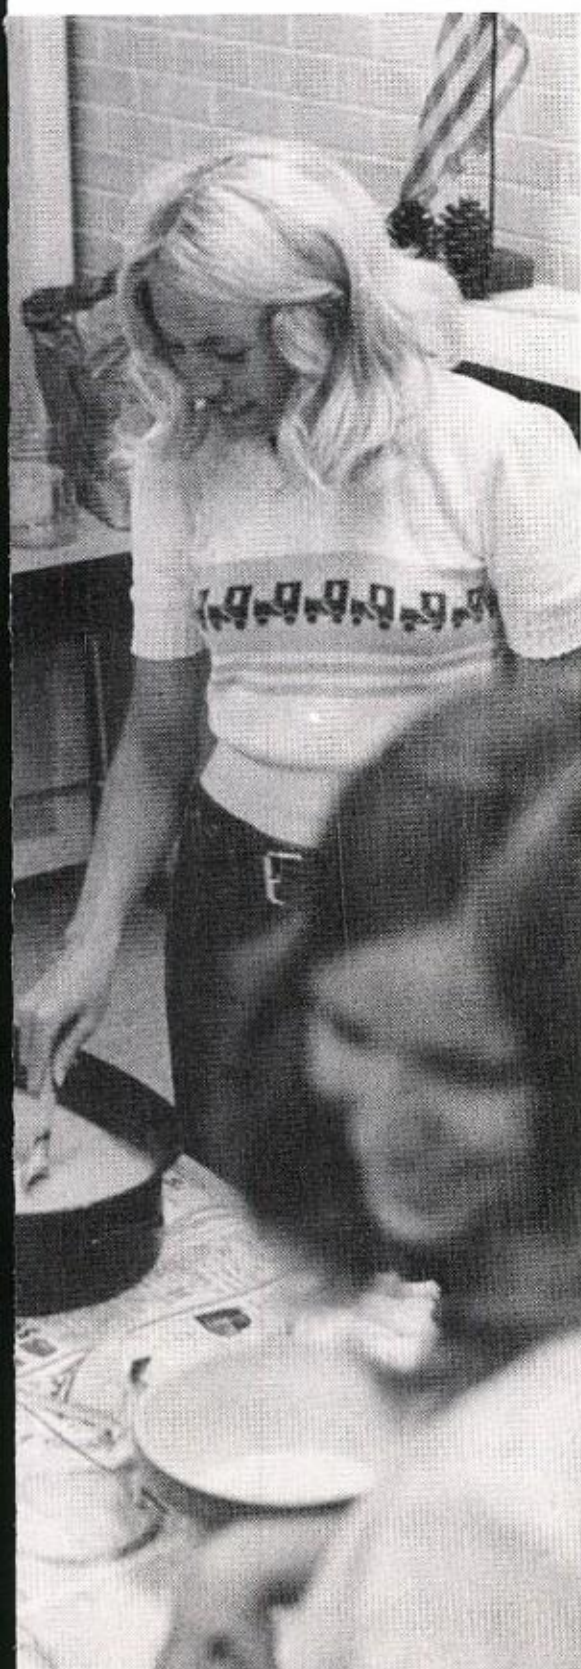

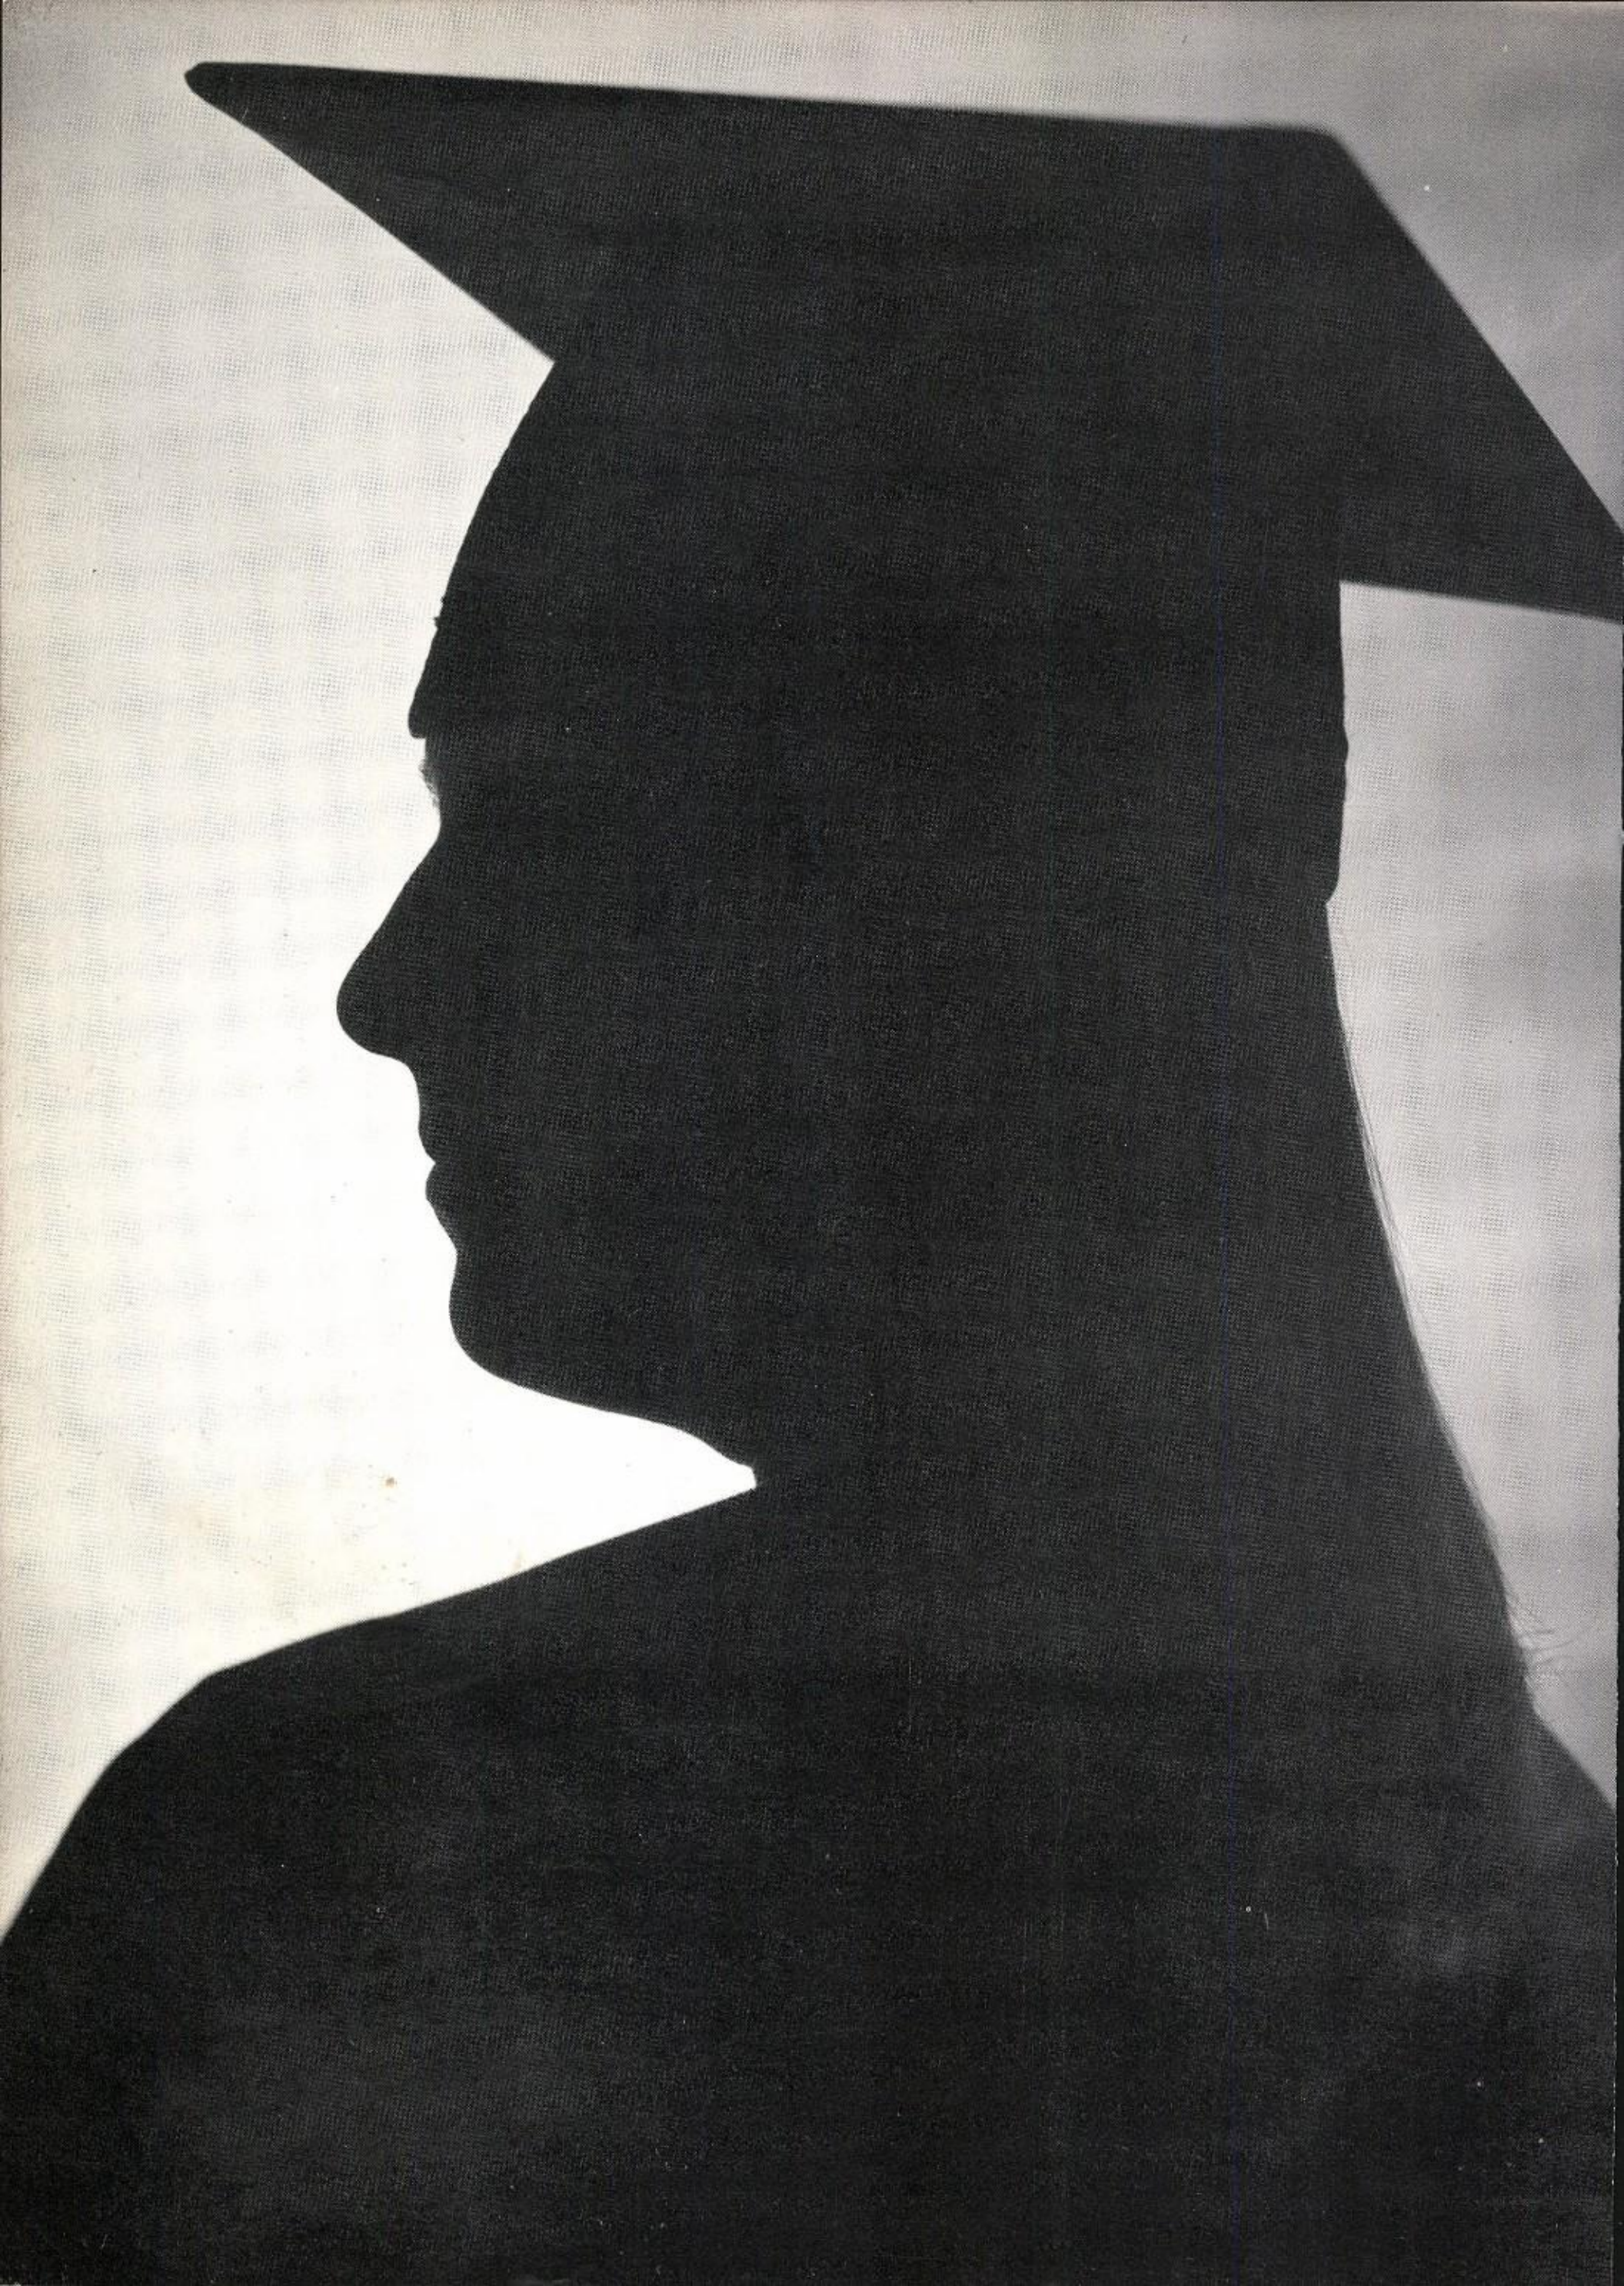

And So. . . We Part

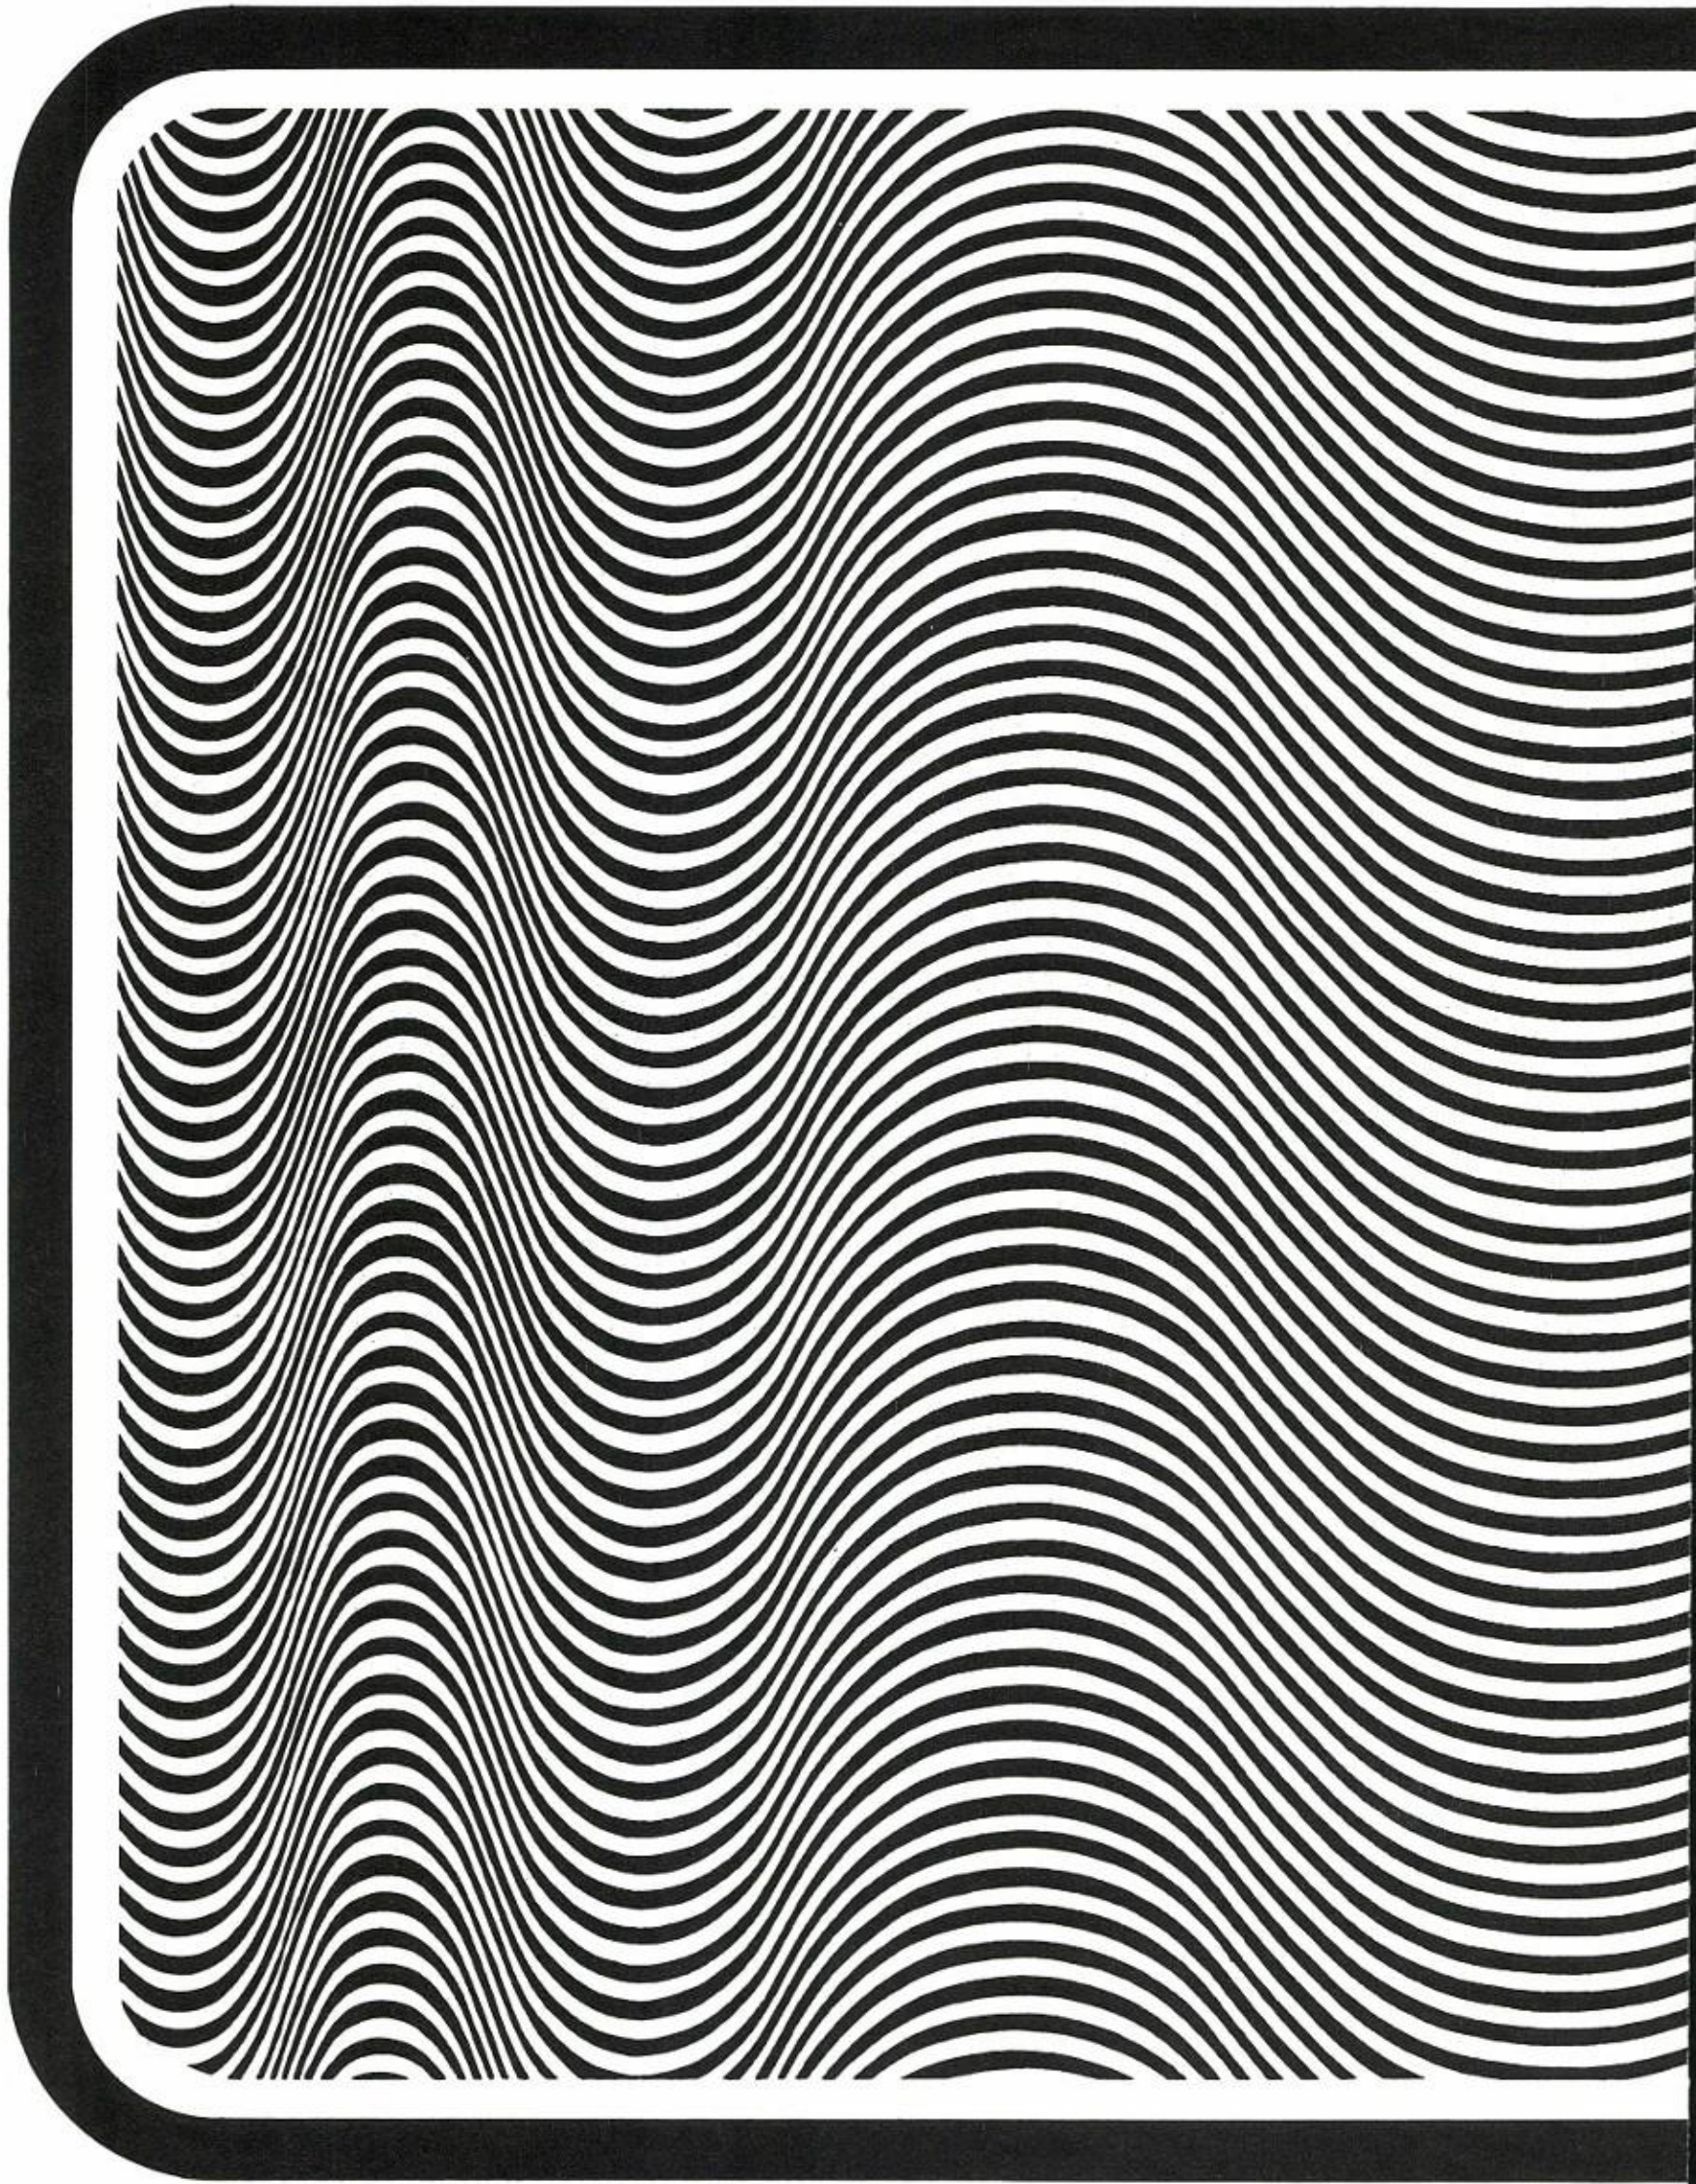

Before leaving, we can not help but recall all that has happened. The picnics, parties, and banquets for the end of the year only help to highlight and bring to mind the work, play, sports, and special days of the year. As they part the students take a last final look at the happenings of '73.

Price Gets Nod As Top Teacher

To his students he's "Uncle Bob." But aside from the good-natured friendship felt by the pupils in his classes, Robert Price is held in a esteem and respect few will ever know. He has taken a subject that previously was known as another boring subject and turned it into an interesting, practical study of the relationship between man and his environment.

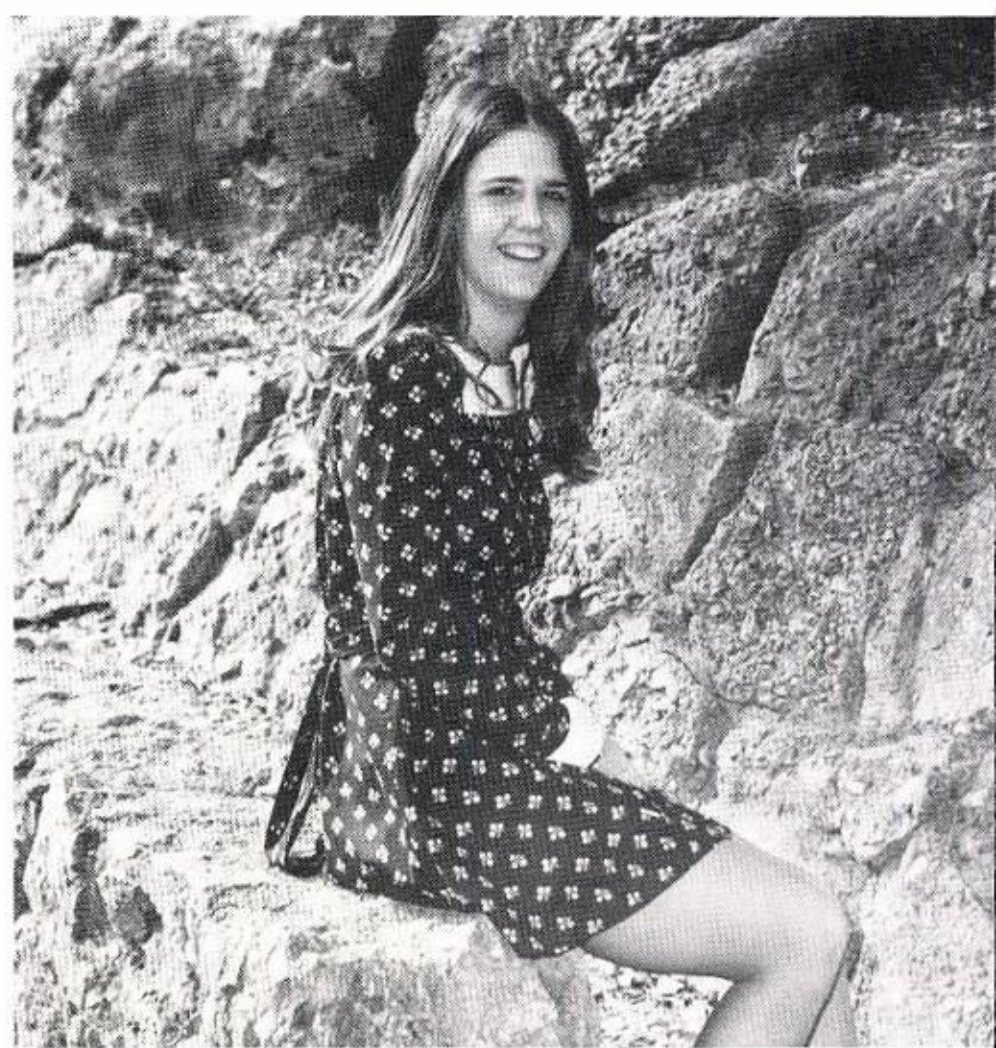

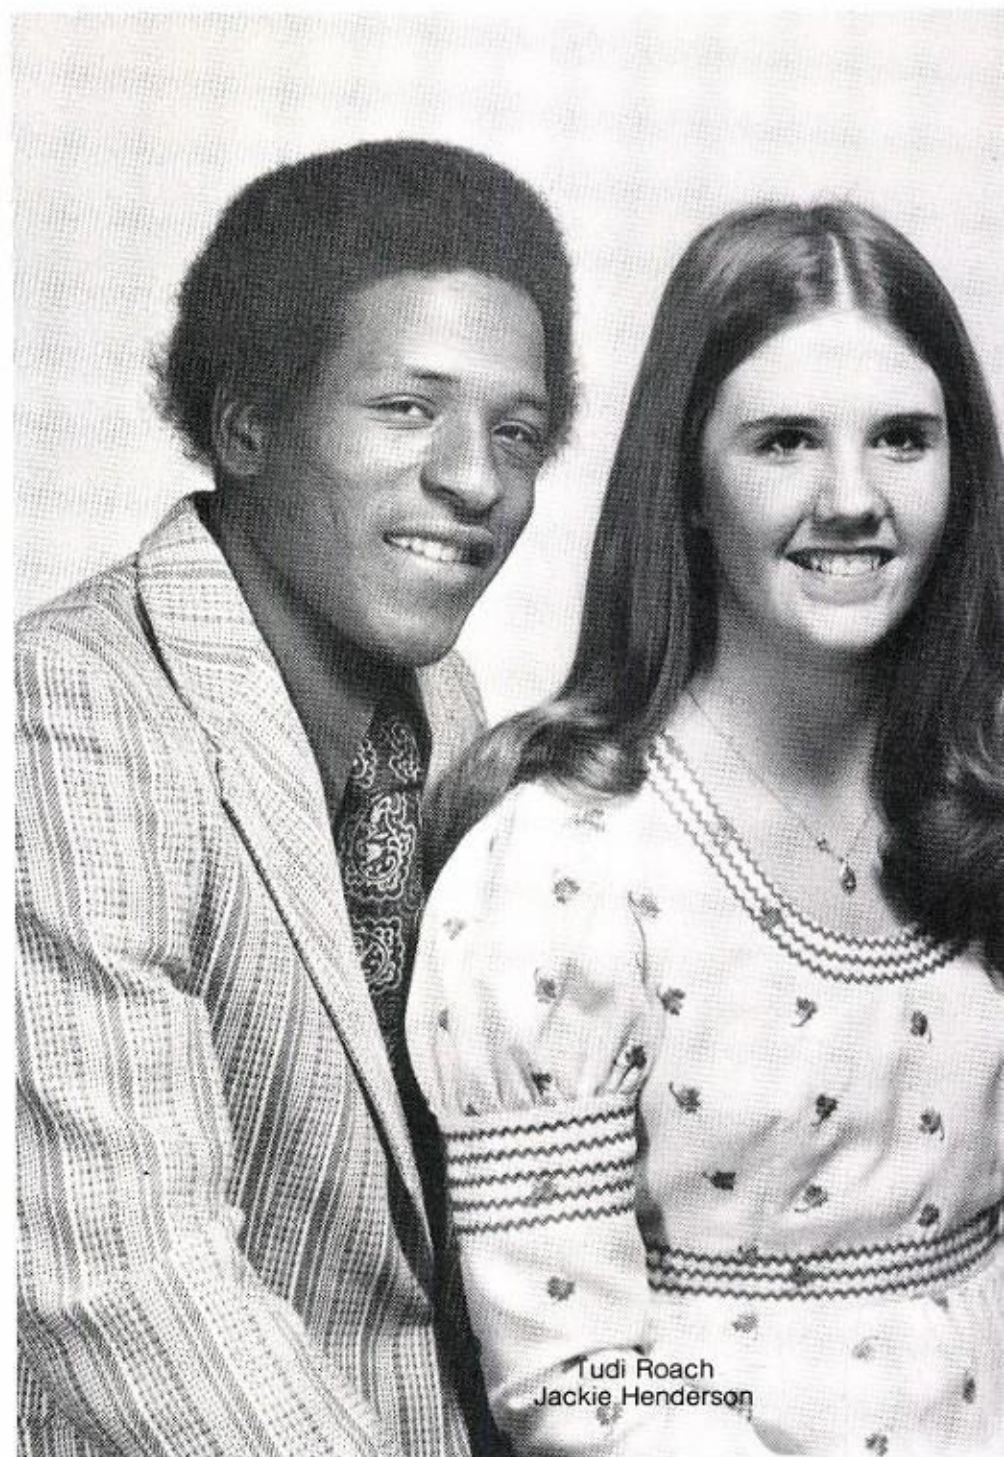

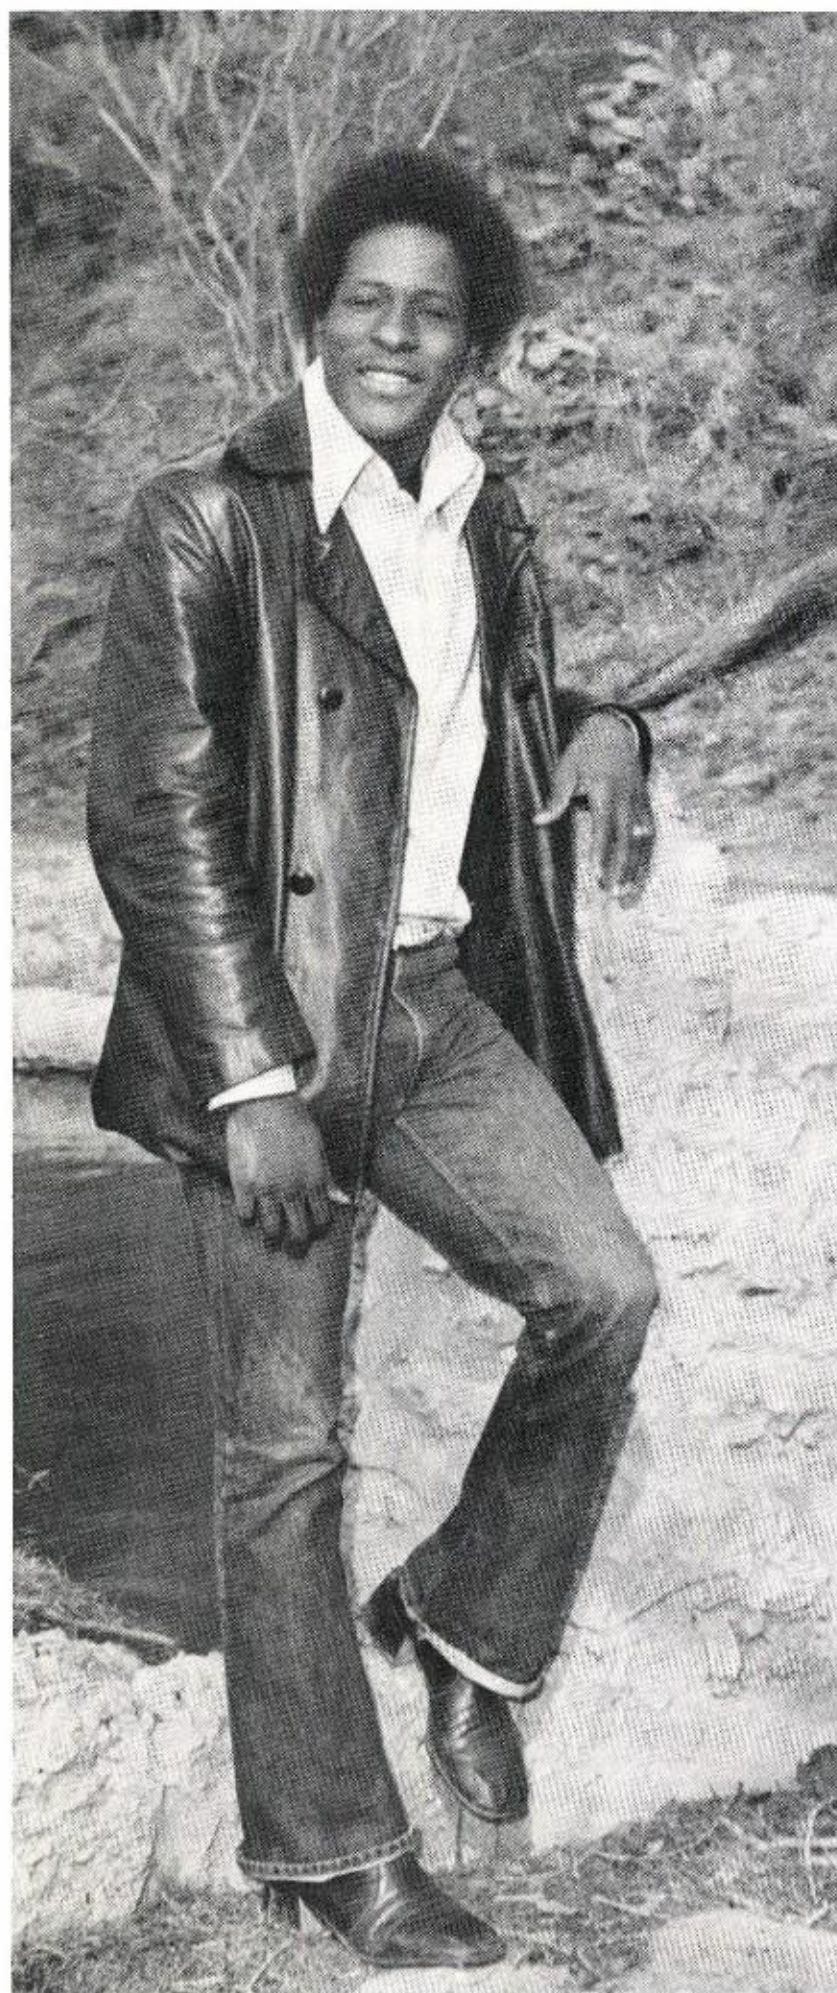

Appearing controversial at times, this A & M graduate has a mild, yet dynamic personality that commands attention, and in a natural way, stimulates his students to think beyond the printed word. His perseverance in teaching and a phenomenal knack of understanding the individual are qualities rarely found anywhere.

He enjoys having "brain-drain" sessions in which students are allowed to ask any question they like, and his favorite answer is "wait until you're older." Mr. Price has long been involved beyond the eight-hour work day as he is sponsor of SCOPE and has contributed invaluable guidance to the students interested in cleaning up the environment. He describes himself as a true blue patriot and old-fashioned, but by helping us to a better understanding of the problems in the world around us he is truly worthy of TEACHER-OF-THE-YEAR.

The track court, consisting of Kelli Cantu, (queen), Jill Fannon, Lanise Kirksey, Vonda Nichols, and Sarita Robison served at the San Angelo Relays. They presented trophies and inspired the Bobcats to capture first place in Division I.

The San Angelo Bobcat track team captured first place with a score of 128 points, 38 points better than second-place Odessa Permian.

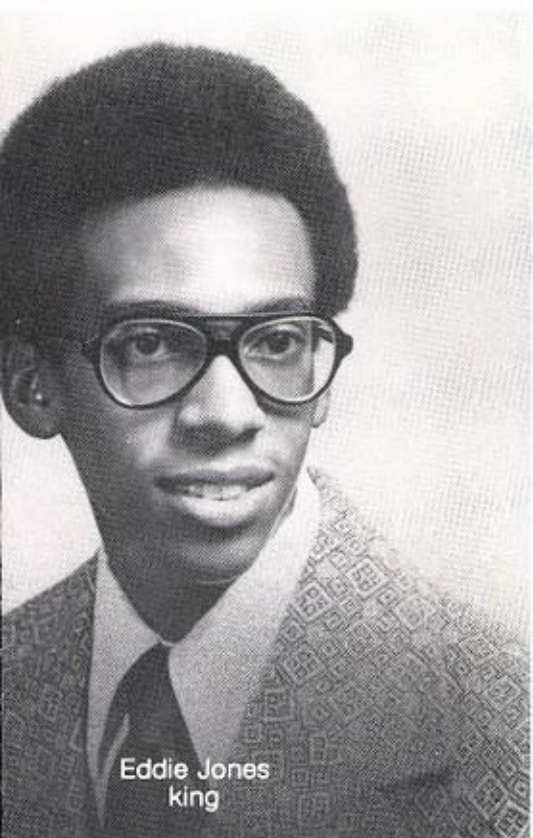

The track court also was on hand for the District 5-4A meet, held the following weekend. And again the Bobcats won the championship.

Becker Spends Year On Campus

Meeting new people and friends was a big part of Frank Becker's year at Central. Becker came here on September 1, 1972, as a foreign exchange student from Essen, Germany.

He is sponsored by the Downtown Rotary Club of San Angelo. One of the nicest parts about being in a typical American high school is seeing the differences between here and there. For example, in Germany there are 13 grades, so although he is a senior here he would only be a junior in Germany.

Becker will return home June 15. He would like to come back to go to college in Texas.

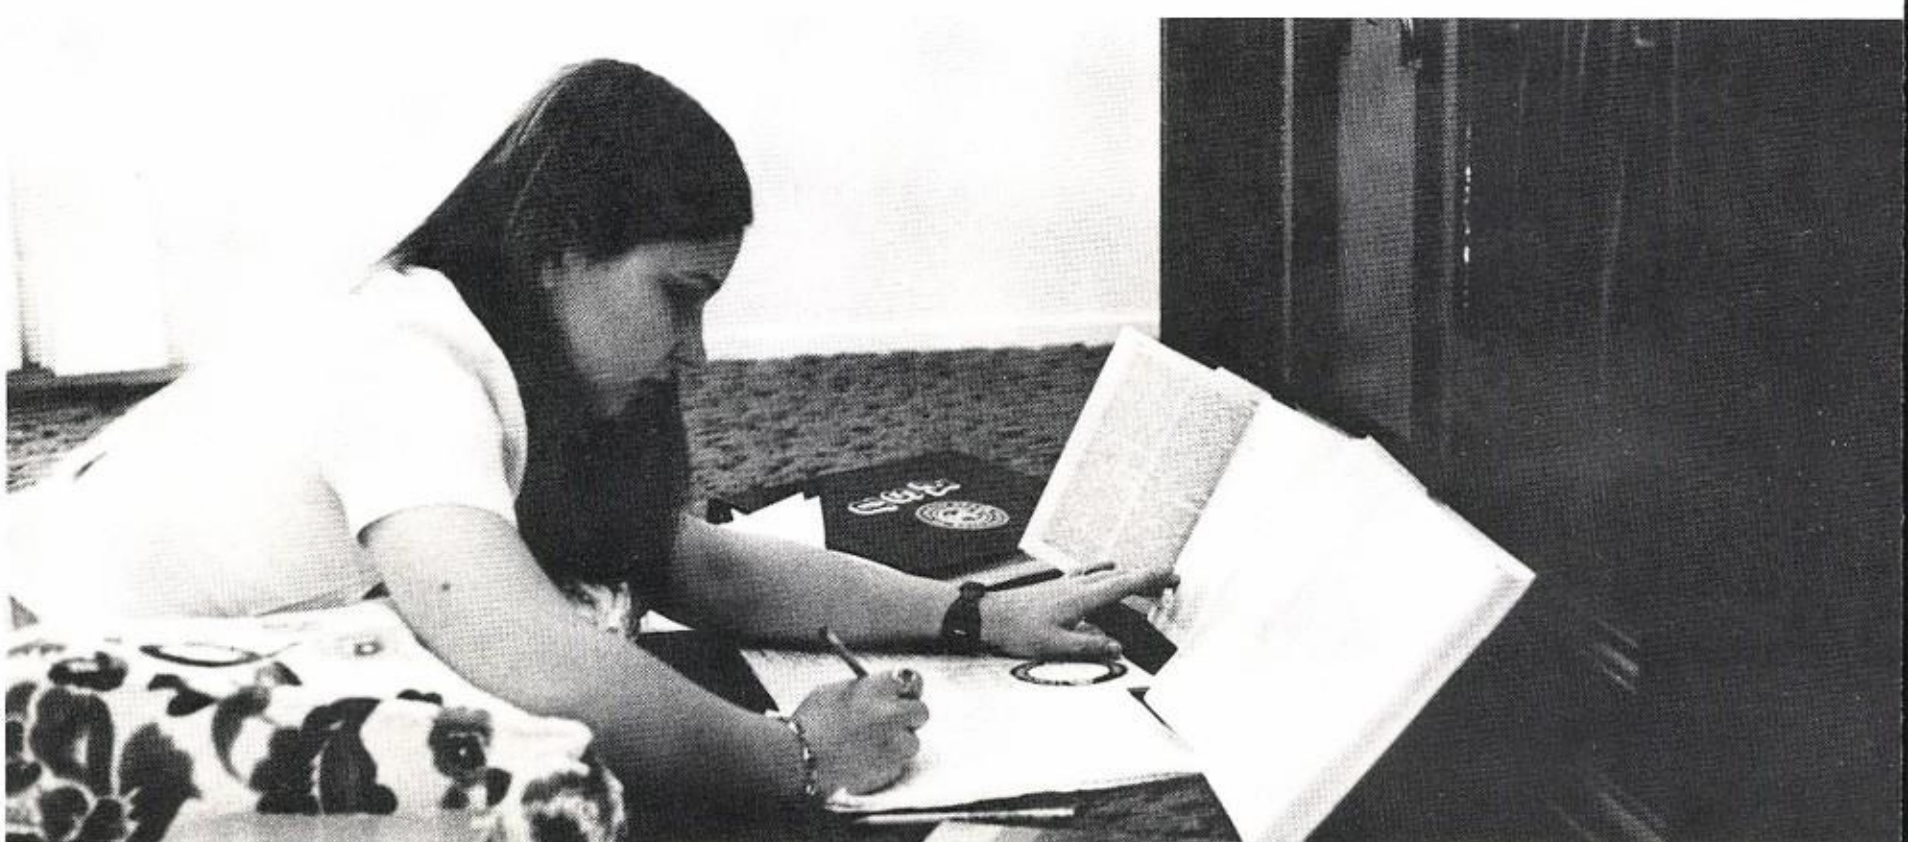

Finnish Katariina Wishes To Stay Longer

Katariina Luoma, foreign exchange student from Tampere, Finland, spent the first semester of this year on the Central campus. Katy is sponsored by the San Angelo Westside Rotary Club.

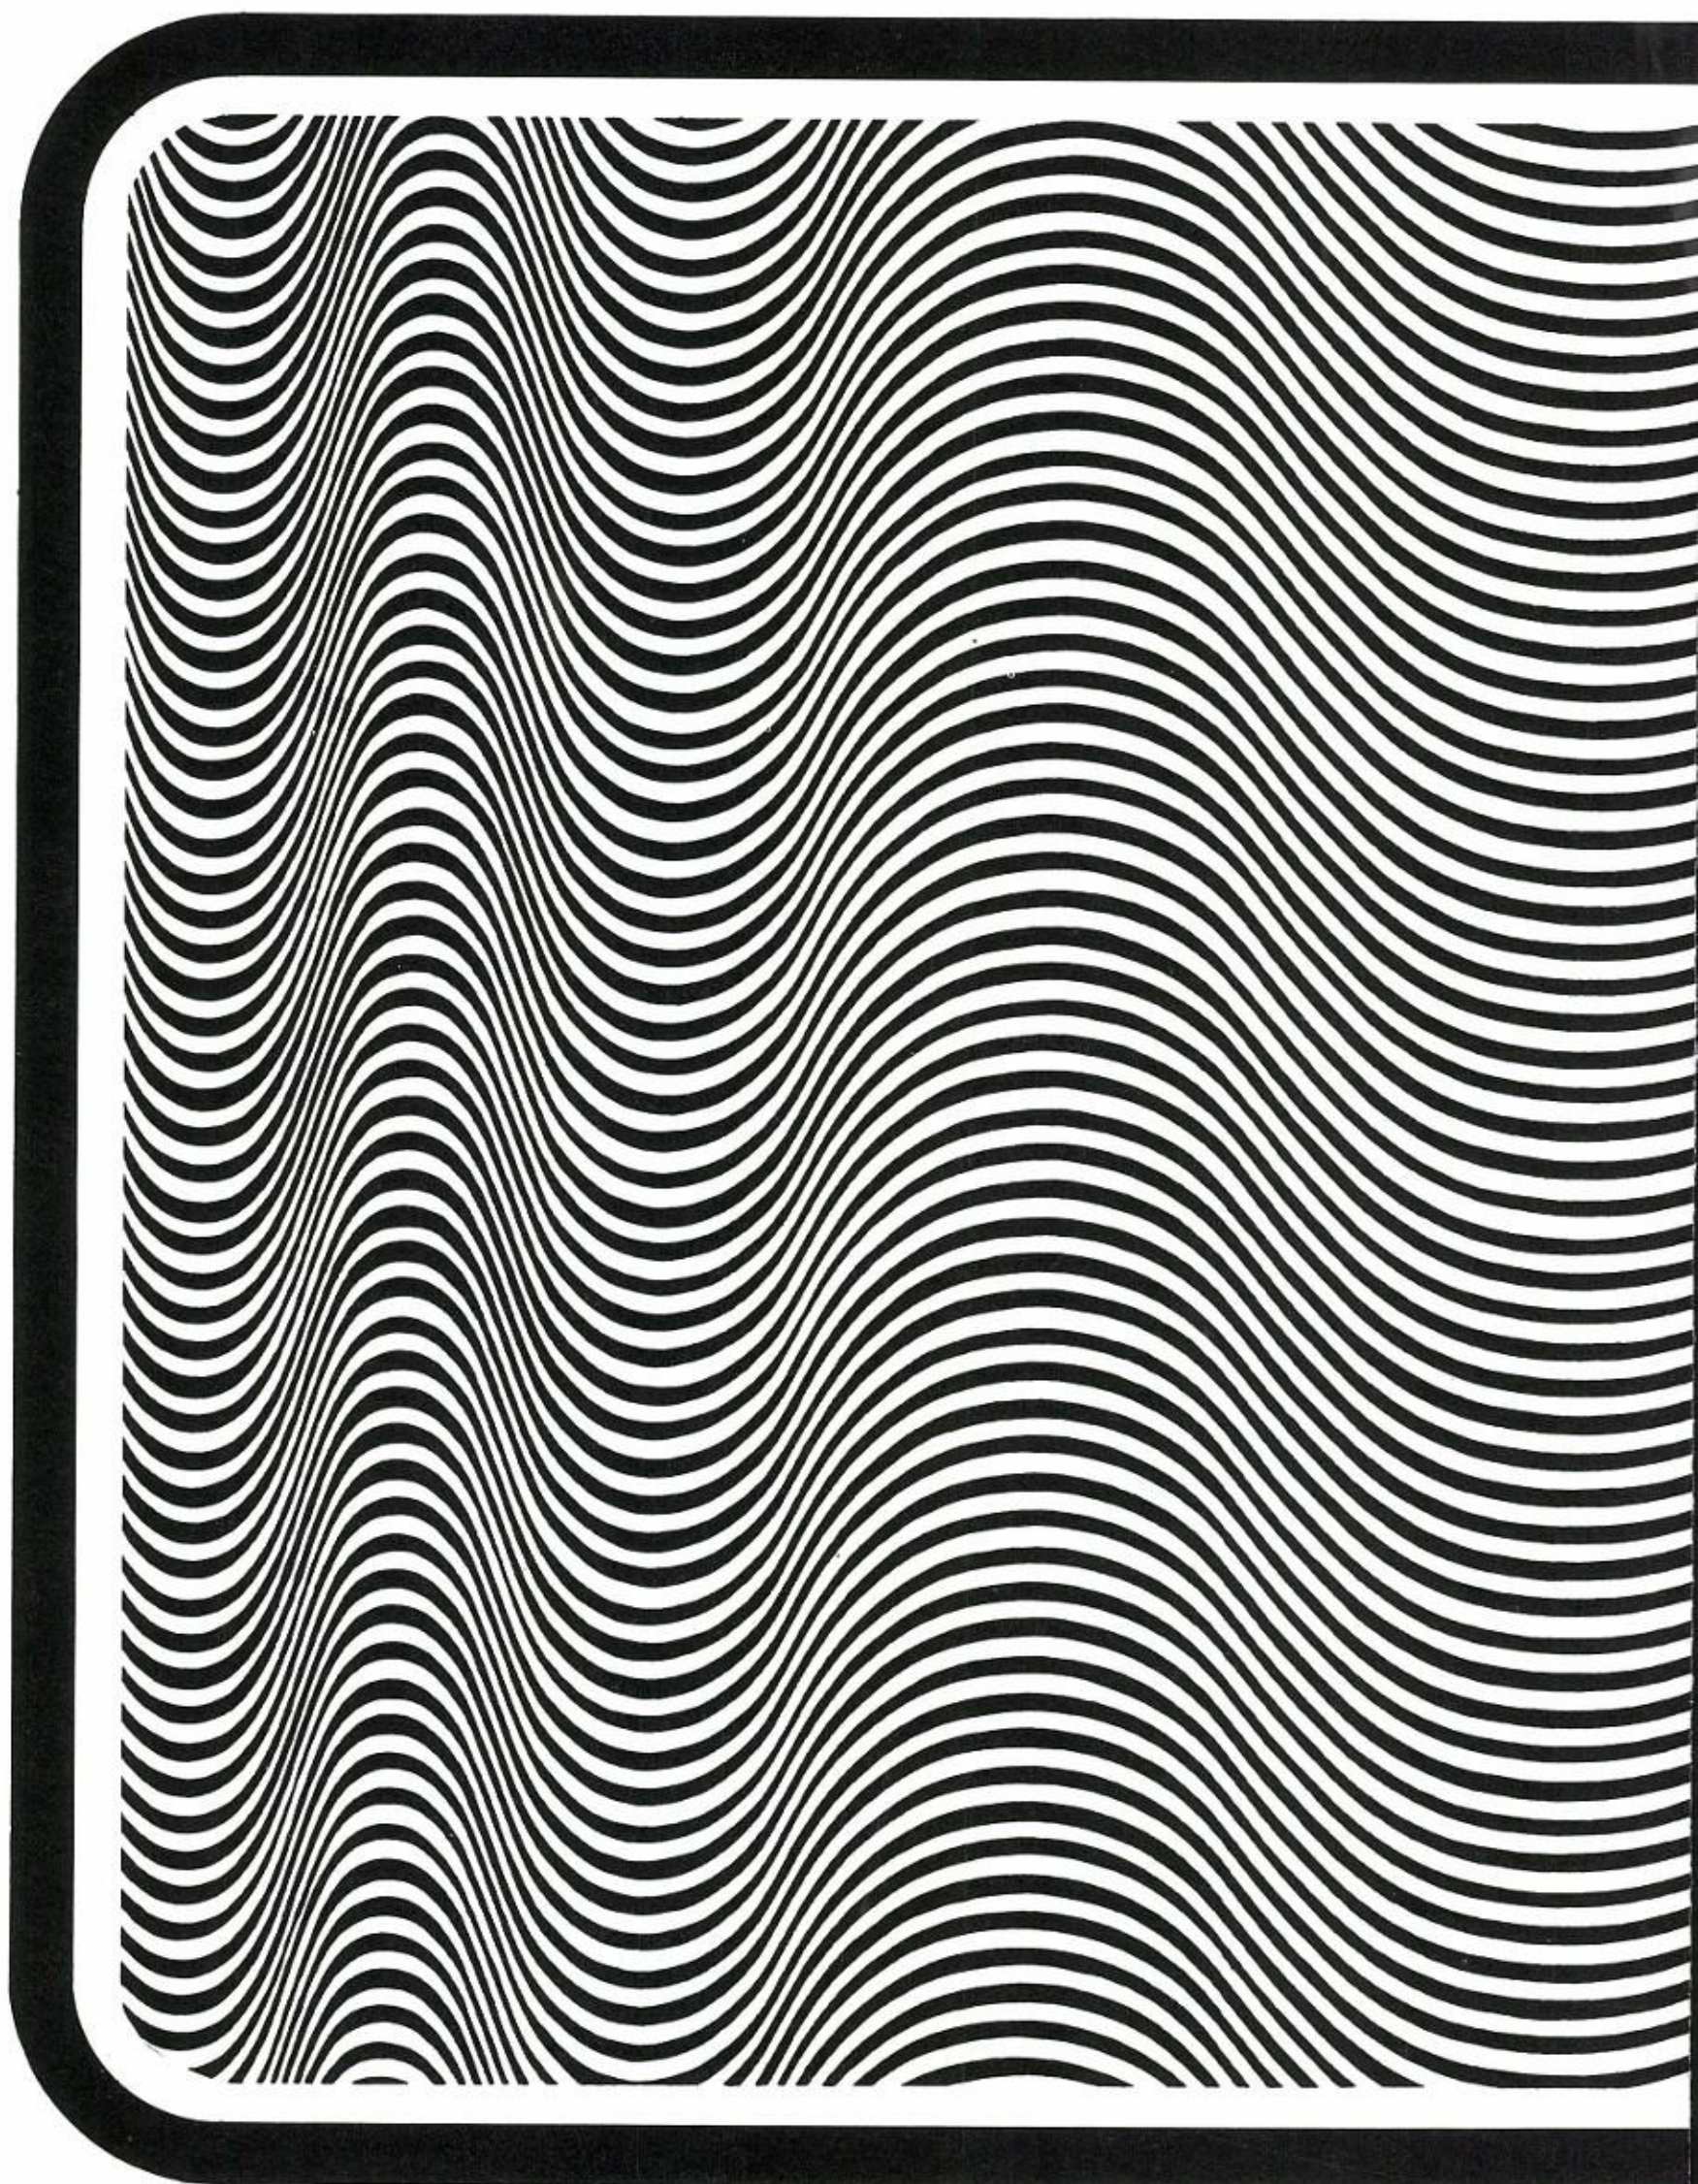

Katy said that she would love to stay longer but she must return to Finland to take an examination, which would permit her to study medicine in Finland.

Katy will leave here early in June after completing a semester at Angelo State University. She has been here since August 15, 1972.

Students Edit, Publish Corral In Journalism

The Campus Corral, bi-weekly student newspaper, is produced by Journalism II students with an occasional assist from first-year staffers. The paper serves as a journalism lab as well as a school publication.

The staff is chosen on a basis of willingness and dedication, with the editors also writing the "Youth Time" column that appears weekly in the Standard-Times.

CO-EDITORS—Nevie Haley and Bruce R. Howell served as co-editors of the 1972-73 Corral.

FEATURING—Maria Ann Garcia, feature editor.

BUSINESS MANAGER, SPORTS EDITOR—Randy Couch, business manager, and Steve Byrd, sports editor, get with it.

'STUFFING' PAPERS—First-year students Pam Boyd, Linda Barrett, and Jackie Baldwin insert middle pages.

'HOW DO YOU SPELL BERNHARDT?'—Such questions are heard frequently in Emerson 4 as Stephen Byrd, Vincent Pontani, Steve Strickland and Ervilene Hahn can attest.

Western Staff Plans, Produces Yearbook

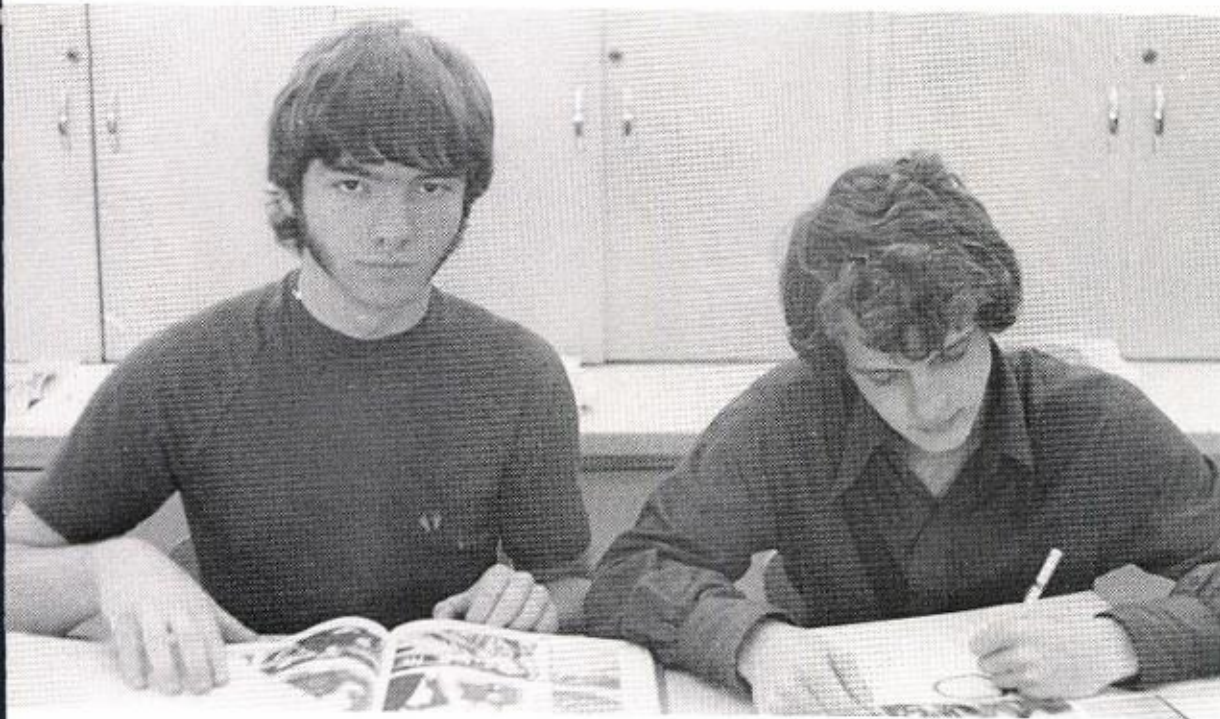

Putting together a 312 page yearbook was the objective of the Westerner staff.

The editors, with special assistance, set up and re-set up pictures, drew up layouts and were a part of almost every page of this publication.

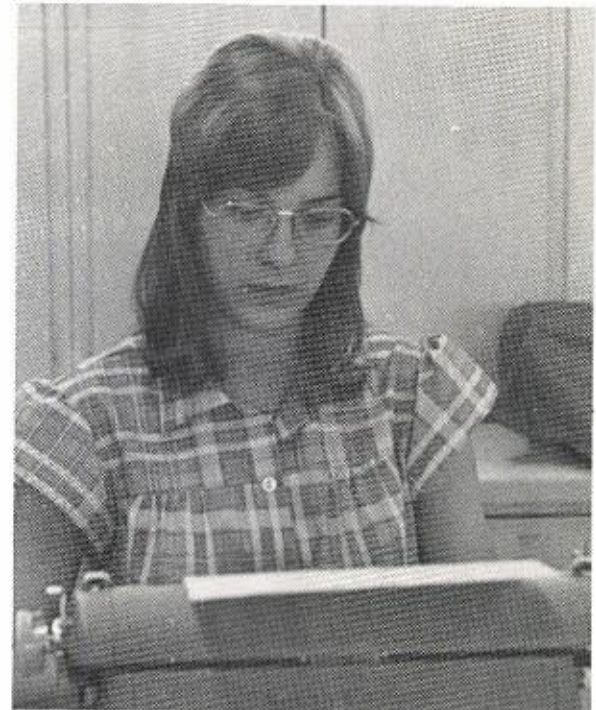

The business manager sold ads and photographers took and printed pictures. These were the people behind these pages.

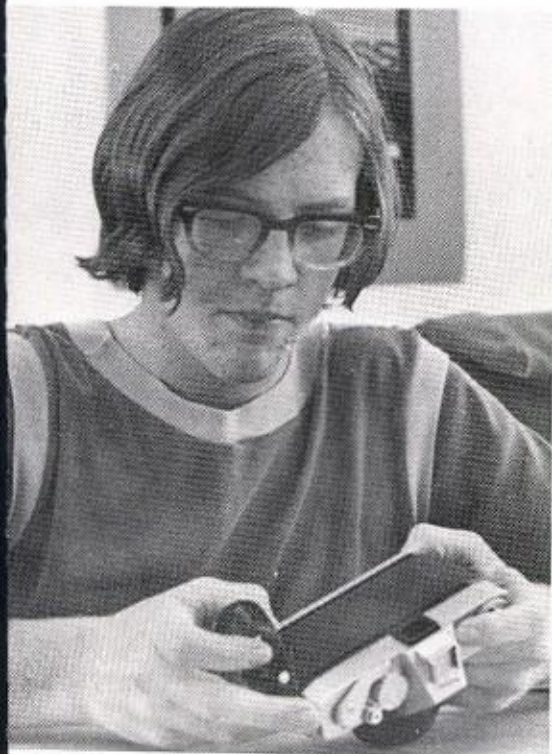

WESTERNER EDITORS—Marci Martin, co-editor; Ronda Mayfield, business manager; and Sandy McFarland, co-editor.

WESTERNER ASSISTANTS—Steve Keeling, Steve Woolard.

'SMITTY' HILL, new athletic director.

Football, Basketball Get New Coaches, 'New Look'

Both Bobcat football and basketball teams took on a new look this year as new coaches took the helm.

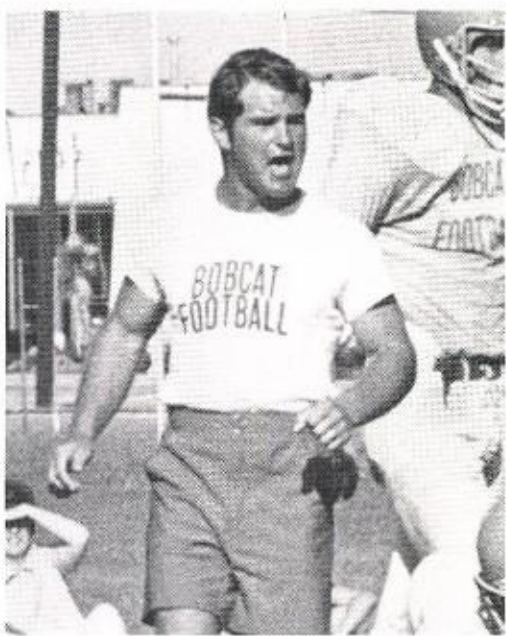

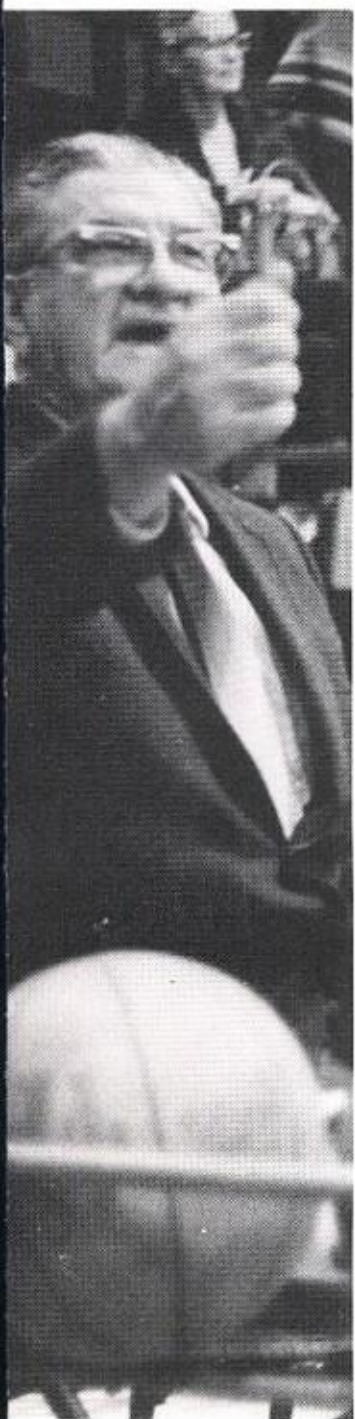

Coach Smitty Hill installed the "I" offense, which proved to be as explosive as predicted. The Bobcats posted a 6-4 season, and in doing so amassed a school offensive record of 3,721 yards, surpassing the old mark of 3,655 set in 1965. Jackie Henderson led the district in scoring 98 of the 281 points tallied by the team—also a first.

Fourteen of 32 lettermen are due to return this fall.

Under Coach James Sharp, Bobcat cagers rebounded to a 12-18 season, including 6-8 in district play. Had they won either of their last two games, the Bobcats would have finished in a tie for 3rd place. As it was, they completed play in a three-way tie with Big Spring and Abilene for 4th.

Sandy Lawrence was high scorer for the season, with 474 points. He was followed by John Elder with 467.

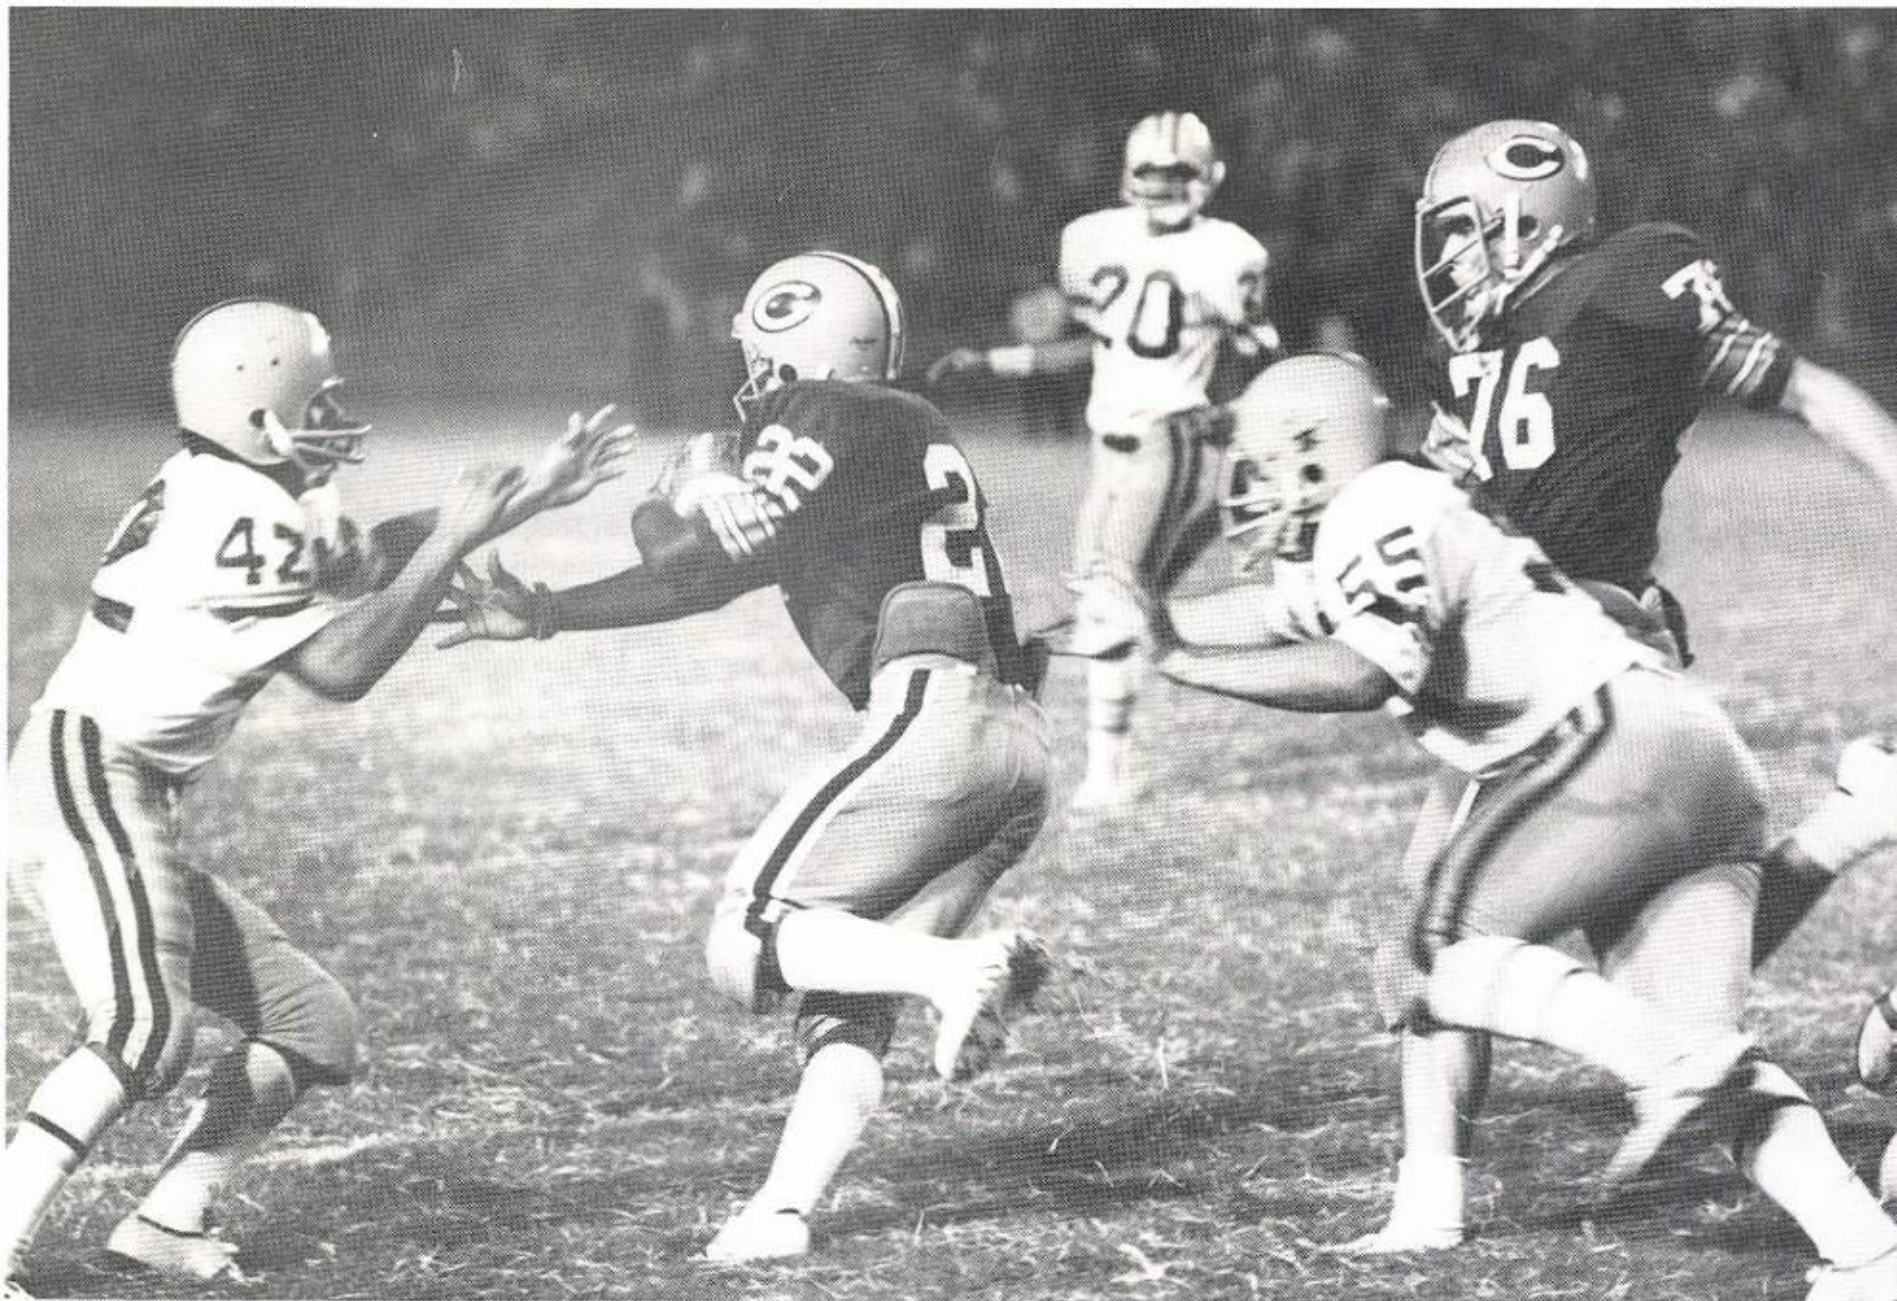

David Dodson, Rell Rice, and Tommy Rodgers will return to furnish the nucleus of next year's team.

Acknowledgments

In our attempt to put together a book of solid shapes and white space to tell the story of Central during 1972-73, we have had the usual setbacks and difficulties. Some of these difficulties would have been insurmountable without the help of some very special people. To them we extend our thanks and appreciation:

Newsfoto Yearbooks, our publisher.

Ron Cook, Newsfoto artist and our representative, for special art work and needed help and advice in the planning of the book.

Bill Folger of Wallace Studio, our portrait photographer.

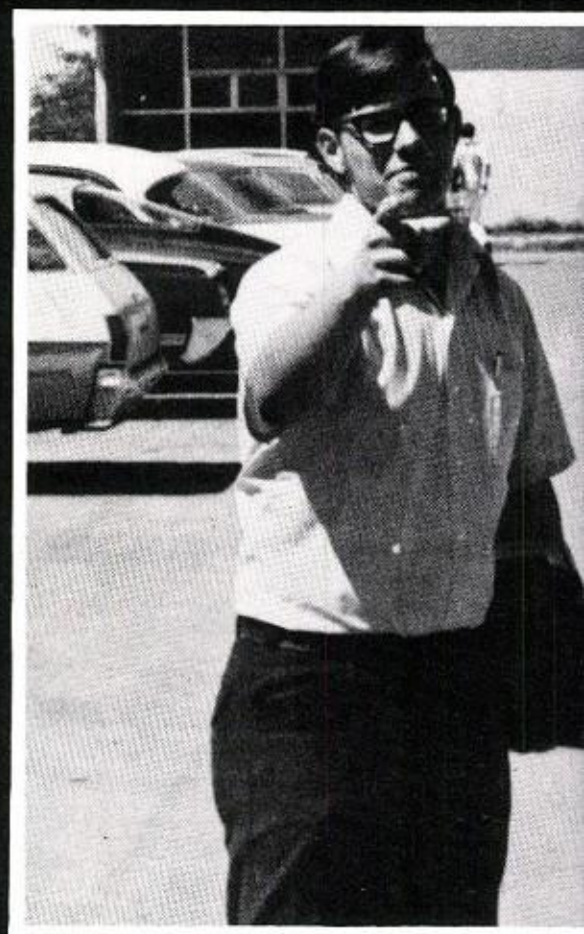

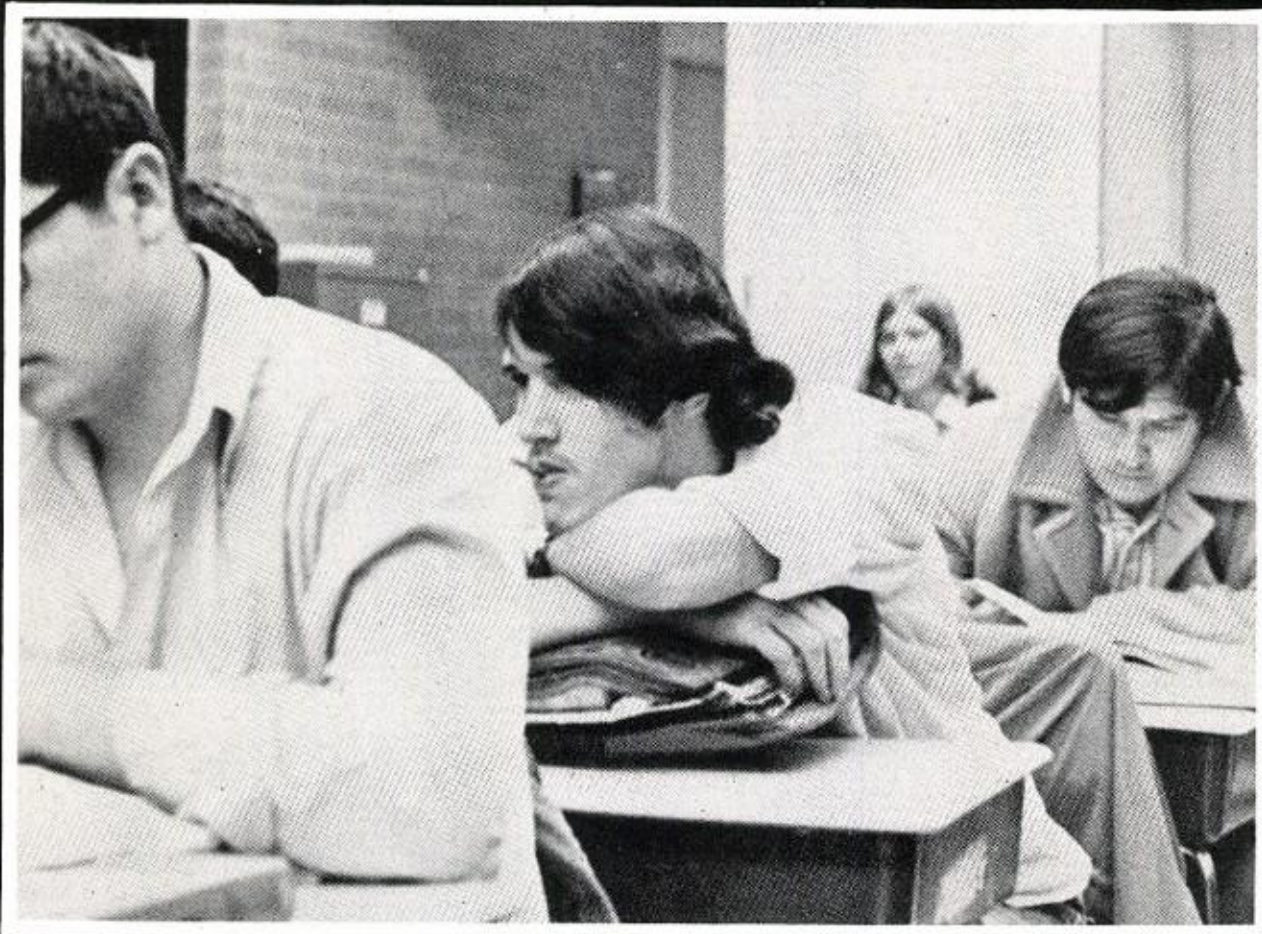

Bob Milburn, executive sports editor of the San Angelo Standard-Times.

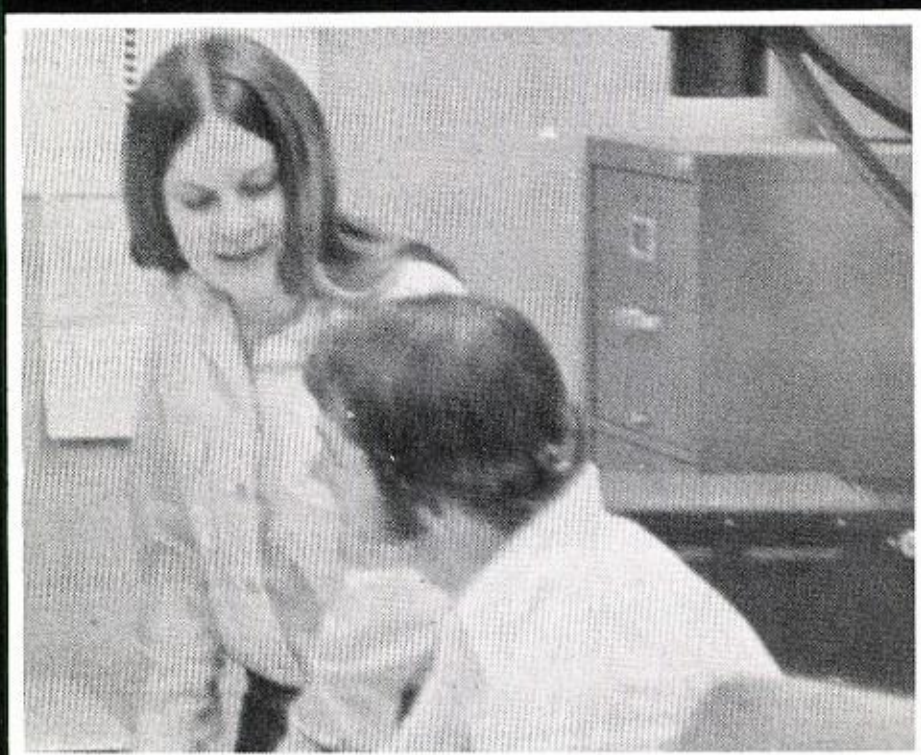

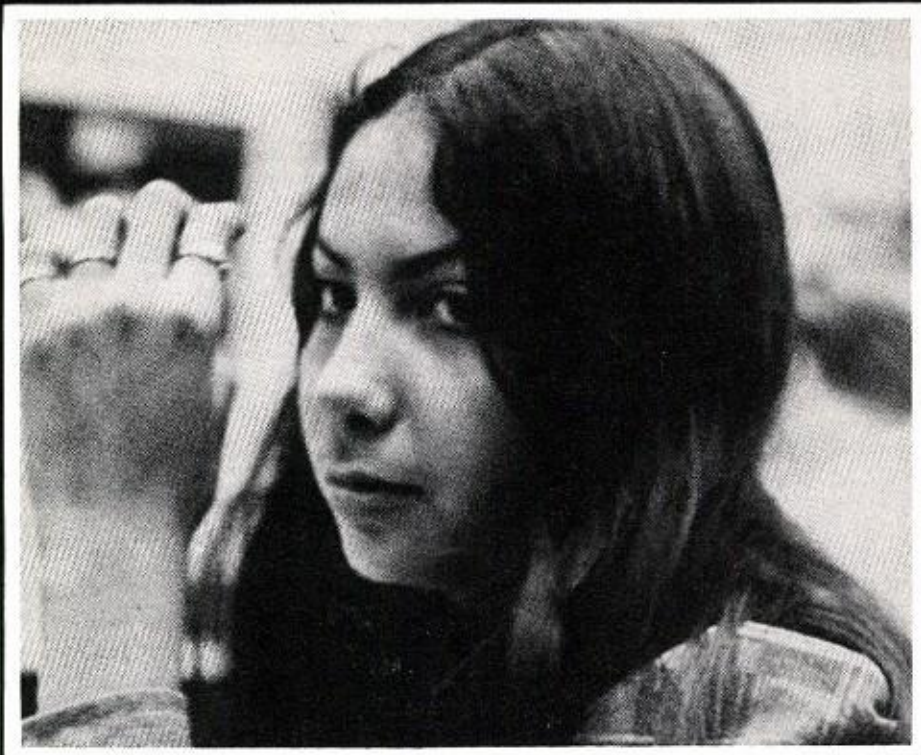

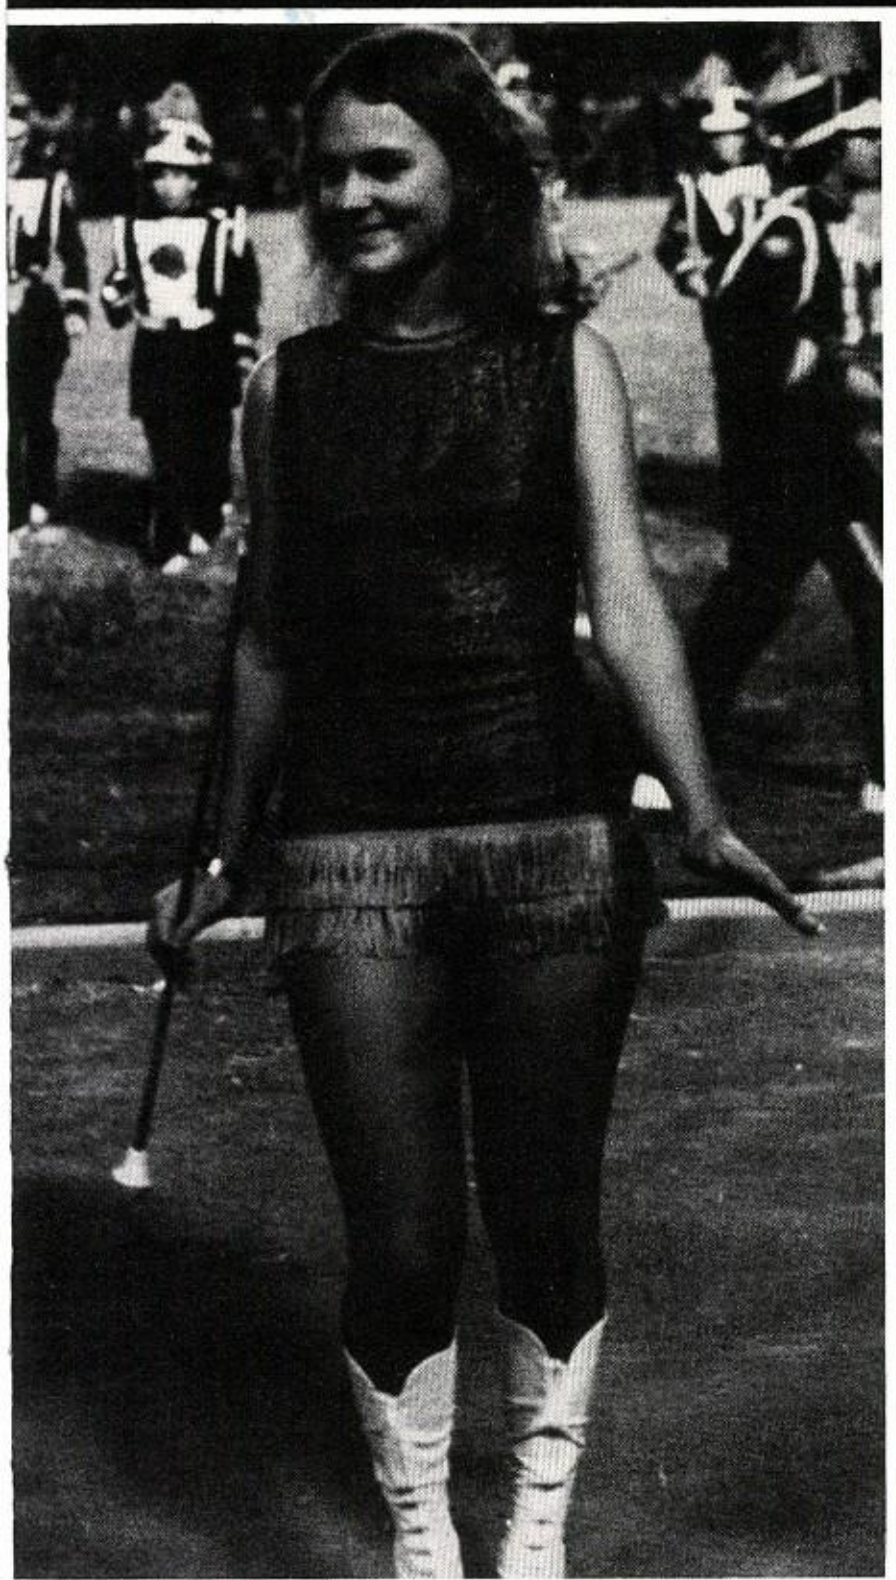

Our advertisers, for their financial support.

And all our teachers, for their cooperation.
